

BEST IN HONG KONG

A TRAVELLER'S GUIDE

SCAN HERE

EXPLORE MORE ON

DISCOVERHONGKONG.COM

Located a 40-minute drive from Hong Kong International Airport and a several minutes' walk from the Diamond Hill MTR station, neighbourhood lifestyle Pentahotel Hong Kong, Kowloon features 695 guestrooms, five meeting rooms, a 24-hour gym and a seasonal outdoor pool. Pentalounge — a combined lobby, reception, bar and café — is anchored by eatstreet@pentalounge, offering all-day comfort foods and drinks.

Sitting at the vibrant core of Tuen Mun and having easy access to Macau, Shenzhen Bay and Hong Kong International Airport, Pentahotel Hong Kong, Tuen Mun is a 16-storey design-led hotel featuring 298 modern guestrooms, a 24-hour gym and a signature Pentalounge — a combined lobby, reception, bar and café, providing independent travellers with comfort and style in a contemporary environment.

Pentahotel Hong Kong, Kowloon

19 Luk Hop Street, San Po Kong, Kowloon, Hong Kong

T: +852 3112 8222 · F: +852 3112 8233 · E: kowloon@pentahotelsasia.com

Facebook: PentahotelHongKongKowloon Instagram: @pentahotelhongkongkowloon

Pentahotel Hong Kong, Tuen Mun

6 Tsun Wen Road, Tuen Mun, New Territories, Hong Kong

T: +852 3112 1138 · F: +852 3112 1163 · E: tuenmun@pentahotelsasia.com

Facebook: PentahotelHongKongTuenMun Instagram: @pentahotelhongkongtuenmun pentahotels.com

PENTA HOTELS

In this issue

06 Highlights

Our hand-picked selection of Hong Kong's best experiences

16 Events calendar

A calendar chock-full of important events, with something for everyone

20 In short

Transport, money, contacts — all the important things you need to know

24 Attractions

The striking sights that make Hong Kong such a rich place to visit

50 Dining

From cheap local meals to upscale French feasts, dining for all budgets and tastes

74 Shopping

Street markets, mega malls, indie stores, and everything in between

94 Sports & outdoors

Our open-air pleasures, from outdoor adventures to major sporting events

112 Living culture

From Chinese traditions to colonial pastimes, culture as a living entity

124 Arts & entertainment

An artistic array of cultural experiences to engage and entertain

140 Nightlife

Neon-lit streets come alive at night, through our many bars and clubs

157 Itinerary

A quick stopover or a long weekend, we've planned it out for you

160 Maps

Never get lost in this incredible city with our easy-to-use maps

Tourist Privileges from Harbour City

Tourists can redeem Harbour City "Tourist Privileges" after online registration as "Harbour Cityzen", and present a valid overseas passport at designated customer service counters of Harbour City, to get an e-coupon for various shopping and dining offers!

Redemption details:

Located on the rooftop of Ocean Terminal's five-storey extension building, Ocean Terminal Deck is an observatory deck surrounded by the sea that offers a 270-degree panorama of Victoria Harbour as well as breathtaking views of Hong Kong Island and Kowloon. It is one of the best venues to enjoy Hong Kong's sunset and evening views. This extension building are mainly dining outlets, each with stunning harbour views and alfresco dining area enabling customers to enjoy the glamorous views of Victoria Harbour while savouring high-quality global cuisines.

Hong Kong's leading shopping mall Harbour City

Located in the heart of Hong Kong and next to Victoria Harbour, Harbour City is a leading shopping mall in Hong Kong housing over 450 shops of all kinds, 3 hotels, an art gallery and more than 70 food & beverage outlets including Michelin-recommended restaurants and over 20 harbour view restaurants, ensuring visitors from all over the world enjoy an incredible one-stop shopping, dining and entertainment experience.

Tel: (852) 2118 8666 Address: 3-27, Canton Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon

微信小程序

10-minute walk from MTR Tsim Sha Tsui station (Exit A1) or East Tsim Sha Tsui station (Exit L5) or Austin station (Exit F) to Harbour City

7-minute ride from Central or Wan Chai Star Ferry Pier to Tsim Sha Tsui Pier

hkHarbourCity | @香港海港城 | @hkHarbourCity | @HarbourCity
@HarbourCity | @hkHarbourCity | :hkHarbourCity | :Harbour City

HARBOUR CITY

一個海港·只有一個 海港城

www.harbourcity.com.hk

Discover the best of Hong Kong

It's 8am on a fresh, autumn morning. In Victoria Park, spritely seniors perform Tai Chi, while eager bankers jog in skin-tight running gear en route to Central's soaring finance hub. Shopkeepers set out baskets of dried seafood, while a neighbouring art gallery adjusts its window display for an upcoming show. Early-rising tourists start posing for selfies as a colonial-era tram – sides emblazoned with software adverts – slowly clatters by.

This is Hong Kong, a dazzling fusion of cultures and contrasts, where Blade Runner-cityscapes sit comfortably against boundless lush-green backdrops. From barren rock to thriving Far Eastern outpost, 100 years of British colonial rule to two decades and counting as a thriving modern metropolis, it's a city that defies easy categorisation.

Most importantly, it's a world-class destination that rewards anyone who takes the time to explore its many layers. Whether you're seeking glimpses of authentic Hong Kong heritage or shopping for the latest street fashions, hungry for some Michelin-starred feasting or eager to trek across mountains to remote coves, there's plenty to keep you busy here.

Where should you start? Well, we believe that nothing beats a local's perspective. Read on to discover the travel experiences that our in-the-know editorial team and panel of local experts have picked out for you to try.

Enjoy reading and happy exploring!

Start with these must-try experiences...

Bar districts

Party the night away at Hong Kong's many bar districts. From Lan Kwai Fong & SoHo's party central to Wan Chai's rowdy crowds, Knutsford Terrace's chilled lounges to local favourite Tung Choi Street (p142-143).

Big Buddha

Watching over Hong Kong like a god incarnate, the Tian Tan Buddha is a stunning statue that stands 34 metres high. Ride the cable car to reach it, and stop for lunch at nearby Po Lin Monastery (p27).

Renovation work on the Tian Tan Big Buddha will be carried out from mid-April 2020, for the latest information, please refer to www.plm.org.hk/eng

Dim Sum

Dim sum: not only Hong Kong's breakfast staple, but a peek at our many societal rungs.

Crack-of-dawn alongside the working classes at Lin Heung Tea Room (p54), rubbing shoulders with all-day crowds at Luk Yu Tea House (p54) and then dishing out tycoon-style at Lung King Heen (p69).

Hiking

Over 70 per cent of Hong Kong is green spaces, so strap on your boots and hit the trails. See stunning views on the Dragon's Back (p100), catch Lantau Island's greatest hits at the Shek Pik Country Trail (p105), and experience everything from monkeys to war tunnels on the MacLehose Trail (p101).

Horse races

Go casual at the Wednesday evening races in Happy Valley, or don an Ascot for the weekend races in Sha Tin (p116). Horse racing is an essential part of Hong Kong culture, a pastime dating back 150 years.

Self-guided walks

A number of fascinating self-guided walks have been mapped out in Hong Kong to help bring the city to life for curious visitors. Old Town Central (p34-35) is the perfect starting point. Alternatively, explore one of Hong Kong's traditional working-class neighbourhoods Sham Shui Po (p36-37).

The Peak

Hong Kong Island's highest point, with stunning panoramic views of the city below, best seen at night. Ride the century-old Peak Tram (p28) to reach it, or go for a green approach following the stunning Morning Trail.

The skyline

Our picture-postcard panorama, a striking mix of towering structures and shimmering lights. Catch dual-harbour views on the Star Ferry (p31), soak it in strolling on the Tsim Sha Tsui Promenade (p29), and then gaze out drink-in-hand from Aqua (p152).

Street markets

Hit the streets and shop at our many outdoor markets. Cat Street (p76) and Temple Street (p78) are antique and vintage favourites, while Ladies' Market (p77), Stanley Market (p78) and the Central lanes (p77) all sell everything from branded clothing to bric-a-brac.

Theme parks

Hong Kong's theme parks are all-age playgrounds, fit for the whole clan. Ocean Park (p41) is proudly home-grown, balancing hair-raising rides with animal enclosures, while Hong Kong Disneyland (p38) is the ideal weekend family getaway.

01 Jan Hong Kong New Year Countdown Celebrations
 As the clock strikes 12 and New Year comes a-calling, Victoria Harbour lights up in an epic display of music and fireworks. Watch it by the shore, head out to sea or zoom up a skyscraper to catch it in the clouds.

Hong Kong Chinese New Year (p114)
International Chinese New Year Night Parade (p114)

02 Feb Hong Kong Marathon (p108)
Hong Kong Arts Festival (p131)

03 Mar

Hong Kong Arts Month
 Culture vultures come flying into town, as March signals Arts Month. From fine art to festivals, operatic events to outdoor live music shows, there's something for everyone.

Art Basel (p130)
Art Central (p130)

04 Apr Hong Kong Sevens (p110)
Birthday of Tin Hau
Cheung Chau Bun Festival (p114)
Birthday of Buddha

05 May Le French May Arts Festival (p131)

06 Jun Hong Kong Dragon Boat Carnival (p108)
Dragon Boat Water Parade of Tai O (p115)

07 Jul & 08 Aug Hong Kong Summer Fun
 When the heat turns up, an array of showcases take place all across the city. Catch music festivals, sports tournaments, major fairs and other events, all set over summer.

09 Sep Tai Hang Fire Dragon Dance (p115)
Hong Kong Great Outdoors
 Take to the hills and explore the great outdoors, by seeking out hikes, beaches and islands.

10 Oct Hong Kong Wine & Dine Festival
 Food, drink and entertainment on Central's harbourfront.
Hong Kong Cyclothon
 Cyclothon sees amateurs and professionals riding through the city.
Hong Kong Tennis Open (p111)
Mid-Autumn Festival (p115)

11 Nov Hong Kong Great November Feast
 The Great November Feast is a month filled with epicurean events, fairs and offers.
Hong Kong Open (p109)
Clockenflap, Hong Kong's Music & Art Festival (p130)

Note!
 All event dates are subject to change. Please visit DiscoverHongKong.com for details

12 Dec Hong Kong Pulse Light Festival
 Make magical memories with a spectacle of light, music and entertainment.

EAST
 THE WORLD-RENOWNED VICTORIA HARBOUR

SOUTH
 A PROSPEROUS FINANCIAL HUB

WEST
 ROMANTIC VISTAS

NORTH
 A TEEMING METROPOLIS

PRESENT THIS PAGE TO ENJOY SKY100 STANDARD TICKET OFFER 10% OFF

ENJOY 360° VIEWS OF HONG KONG AT CITY'S HIGHEST INDOOR OBSERVATION DECK

Address: 100/F, International Commerce Centre (ICC), 1 Austin Road West, Kowloon, Hong Kong (MTR Kowloon Station Exit C, "sky100 Hong Kong Observation Deck" Entrance connecting ELEMENTS – Metal Zone 2/F)

Customer Hotline: +852 2613 3888 SKY100.COM.HK

* This offer cannot be used in conjunction with other ticket promotions or discounts, subject to terms and conditions.

Useful information to help you get started

Hong Kong by numbers

Population: Approximately 7.5 million

GDP: US$363.03 billion (2018)

Total Land Area: 1,106.34 km<sup>2</sup>

Districts: 18

Official Languages:

2 (English & Chinese)

Calling Code: +852

Time Zone: GMT+8 (all year round)

Average Temperature:

Spring (Mar-May) 17°C-26°C

Summer (Jun-Aug) 26°C-31°C

Autumn (Sep-Nov) 19°C-28°C

Winter (Dec-Feb) 12°C-20°C

Money matters

Currency exchange counters are available at the airport, as well as all over the city. Most ATMs accept international cards, while international credit cards are widely accepted. The Hong Kong dollar is pegged at HK$7.8 to US$1.

Keep connected

Prepaid SIM cards can be cheaply bought from any convenience store. Pick up a Discover Hong Kong Tourist SIM Card, special 5-day or 8-day passes loaded with minutes and data. Details: DiscoverHongKong.com/TouristSIM

If you'd prefer to stay mostly unplugged, free Wi-Fi is available at numerous points, including the airport, MTR stations and anywhere with a 'Wi-Fi.HK' logo.

Online resources

Make sure you visit DiscoverHongKong.com, Hong Kong's official destination website for a comprehensive guide to the city. And don't forget to hashtag your Facebook and Instagram posts with #DiscoverHongKong.

Getting around

Octopus

An Octopus Card is an essential purchase, even if you're only here a couple days. The add-value card allows you to travel cash-free on all major transport systems, and can also be used at convenience stores and some shops. It costs HK$150 at any MTR station (HK$100 value, plus HK$50 deposit refunded on return), and can be topped up easily.

Airport

The Airport Express is the quickest way to get into the city, a 24-minute train journey that makes stops in Tsing Yi, Kowloon and Hong Kong stations. Passengers can also use the complimentary Airport Express Shuttle Bus that runs between Hong Kong or Kowloon stations and major hotels, as well as railway interchanges. Meanwhile public buses cover all major districts of the city.

MTR

Hong Kong's clean and efficient subway system, the MTR covers nearly every part of the city. Buy tickets with cash at its machines, or use your Octopus Card. Make sure to check the signs to see which exit you want, as walkways can be long.

Taxi

Taxis are cheap and can be spotted nearly everywhere. Red taxis operate all across the city. Green ones are for New Territories. Blue are for Lantau Island. Red taxi flag-fall is HK$24, and each piece of luggage carried costs HK$6.

Bus

Buses operate all across Hong Kong. Double-decker buses are most frequent, and are hailed at designated stops. Minibuses are harder to navigate: green ones have set paths and stops, but red ones follow whatever route is quickest.

Tram

Street trams travel between the east and west points of Hong Kong Island. The Peak Tram, meanwhile, is really a funicular that scales up to the island's highest viewing point.

Ferry

Most ferries can be taken from Central Pier, including the Star Ferry to Kowloon, as well as Outlying Island ferries to Cheung Chau, Lamma Island and Lantau Island. Other piers include Wan Chai, North Point, Aberdeen, Stanley, Hung Hom, Kowloon City and Sai Kung.

Useful numbers

Emergency Services	999
Police Hotline	+852 2527 7177
Telephone Directory Enquiries	1081
Weather Information (Hong Kong Observatory)	+852 1878 200
Hong Kong Tourism Board Visitor Hotline	+852 2508 1234
Hong Kong Immigration Department	+852 2824 6111
Hong Kong International Airport	+852 2181 8888

Cantonese phrases

You'll have no problem only using English in Hong Kong - but trying out a bit of Cantonese will endear you with the locals. Here are some useful basic phrases to get started.

- Good morning: 早晨 (zou san)
- Hello: 你好 (nei hou)
- Thank you: 唔該 (ng goi)
- How are you?: 你好嗎? (nei hou maa)
- Excuse me: 唔好意思 (ng hou yi si)
- Marvellous!: 好犀利! (hou sai lei)
- Why?: 點解? (dim gai)
- How much?: 幾多錢? (gei do cin)
- Delicious!: 好好味! (hou hou mei)
- The bill, please: 唔該埋單 (ng goi maai daan)

Home is where the heart of the city is.

Stay in the middle of city and discover something new and something traditional. Recharge yourself in comfortable guestrooms with hi-tech amenities and magnificent views of Victoria Harbour.

BOOK NOW AT HYATTCENTRICHONGKONG.COM

HYATT CENTRIC™
VICTORIA HARBOUR
HONG KONG

Attractions

Soaring skyscrapers, villages built on stilts, top-of-the-town panoramas and homegrown theme parks. Variety is the spice of Hong Kong's attractions.

No other city in Asia offers such an amazingly varied array of attractions as Hong Kong. A rich assortment of sights stretching to the far reaches of the city, all packed into a small space.

From world-class museums, ornate temples and tranquil nature parks, to bustling markets, dazzling light shows and ear-splitting fireworks displays, choose the one-of-a-kind thrill that suits your mood. One moment you can be immersed in a state-of-the-art 3-D superhero adventure at a theme park, the next you're delving into history with a seat aboard a century-old tram tour or ferry, glimpsing up at one of the most spectacular modern skylines on the planet. A fascinating adventure beckons.

Avenue of Stars

Reopened in January 2019 following a three-year renovation, this waterside Walk of Fame is now more photogenic than ever. With the skyline of Hong Kong Island as a backdrop, grab a selfie alongside statues and handprints of celebrities such as Bruce Lee and Anita Mui Yim-fong, or simply gaze in awe at the six-metre bronze of the Goddess of the Hong Kong Film Awards.

1 Address: Tsim Sha Tsui Promenade, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit J)

Website: www.avenueofstars.com.hk

The Big Buddha & Po Lin Monastery

Erected in 1993, the enormous Tian Tan Buddha is one of the symbols of Hong Kong, a 34-metre-high statue that took a dozen years to complete and now watches over the many people of our city. It's a must-see, and make sure to drop into nearby Po Lin Monastery, a sacred Buddhist sanctuary. Alongside rich histories and gorgeous gardens, it has a delicious vegetarian restaurant open to the public.

2 Address: Ngong Ping, Lantau Island (MTR Tung Chung Station, Exit B, then Ngong Ping Cable Car).

Renovation work on the Tian Tan Big Buddha will be carried out from mid-April 2020, for the latest information, please refer to www.plm.org.hk/eng

The Big Buddha & Po Lin Monastery

DukLing Harbour Cruise

Hong Kong's harbour views are unrivalled, stunning skylines set against the surrounding waters. The best way to take it in is on a cruise, but instead of the standard tourist boat, book a ride aboard DukLing, an ancient Chinese fishing vessel complete with wooden decks and classic red sails. DukLing makes regular sailings throughout the day, but we recommend catching one of the sunset trips, or better yet, its special Symphony of Lights cruise, which is timed with the nightly show.

3 Website: dukling.com.hk

The Peak

The Peak is Hong Kong Island's highest point and a must-see site. The 360-views are stunning, with sweeping vistas of the entire city below. Here, you'll see visitors from around the world jostling for selfies from the anvil-shaped Peak Tower. Next door, Peak Galleria mall offers an array of shopping and dining options, plus a viewing terrace with free entry. Most summit-seekers hop on the century-old Peak Tram, scaling steep inclines from Central's base. But for a more green approach, snake your way from Hatton Road along the Morning Trail, an enjoyable hiking path.

4 Address: The Peak, Hong Kong Island, Peak Tower: 2849 0668, Peak Galleria: 2849 4113, Peak Tram: 2522 0922 (MTR Central Station, Exit J2 to Peak Tram)

Skyscrapers

The defining image of Hong Kong that creates such a striking impression: our skyline, made up of its fascinating medley of skyscrapers. From Central's 88-storey Two ifc to Kowloon's 118-floor International Commerce Centre. From the retro-themed Hopewell Centre, once the city's tallest, to the I.M. Pei-designed Bank of China Tower. Each has its own distinct history, and all are best admired during the Symphony of Lights.

Tai O Village

5 Address: a) ifc mall, 8 Finance Street, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit A); b) International Commerce Centre, 1 Austin Road West, West Kowloon, Kowloon (MTR Kowloon Station, Exit B); c) Hopewell Centre, 183 Queen's Road East, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit B2); d) Bank of China Tower, 1 Garden Road, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit J2)

Tai O Village

A longstanding village that's survived mass development, Tai O is a like a time warp: a trip back to the lives of Tanka fisher-families, coupled with hints of colonial history. The Tanka village houses are set right on the water, interconnected fishing abodes built on stilts in ordered chaos. Just minutes away is the Tai O Heritage Hotel, a hundred-plus-year-old former police station converted into a retro-styled hotel.

6 Address: Tai O, Lantau Island (MTR Tung Chung Station, Exit B, then bus 11)

Clock Tower

Tsim Sha Tsui Promenade

The stunning Hong Kong skyline, a symbol of our city. It's best appreciated strolling along the Tsim Sha Tsui promenade, just metres from the Star Ferry Pier and with numerous neighbouring sights to keep you occupied. Snap low-angle selfies under the Clock Tower, pose next to Bruce Lee's statue at the Garden of Stars and then take in some culture at one of the museums nearby, including the Hong Kong Science Museum.

7 Address: a) Tsim Sha Tsui Promenade, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit E); b) Clock Tower, Star Ferry Pier, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit E); c) Science Museum, 2 Science Museum Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit B2)
Website: museums.gov.hk

The Blue House

A bright shade of blue among Wan Chai's bustle, The Blue House is an intriguing tenement building originally built in the 1920s and once famed for its kung fu studio run by a student of master Wong Fei-hung. Preserved today as a testament to the area's heritage, its four storeys are still occupied by city folk. A little museum here called Hong Kong House of Stories does a great job showcasing its history.

8 Address: 72 Stone Nullah Lane, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A3)

Chungking Mansions

Known as the 'ghetto in the city', Chungking Mansions is where many of Hong Kong's minorities gather. If you can ignore the touts trying to flog fake watches and cheap suits, you're offered a truly immersive experience. Tuck in to the most affordable South Asian cuisine in town and treat yourself to a glass of Nepalese rum. Pick up a piece of Indian clothing, or just wander its corridors for bargains.

9 Address: 36-44 Nathan Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit G)

Star Ferry

For nearly a century, the Star Ferry was the only way to travel between Hong Kong Island and Kowloon. In operation since 1888, the harbour trip remains a wonder to behold. Most travellers ride upstairs for its air-conditioned deck, but we prefer the open-air down below. Also consider hopping aboard the Harbour Tour, an hour-long trip on an open-top ferry across the entire length of the waterfront.

10 Address: Star Ferry Pier, Man Kwong Street, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit A2) & Star Ferry Pier, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit L6)

Statue Square

A vestige of the city's colonial past, Statue Square and its neighbouring sights are a moment of calm reflection among Central's endless bustle. Built in 1896, the square was named after the bronzes it once held before they were confiscated by the Japanese during WWII and sent to Japan to be melted down. Nearby, The Cenotaph is a replica of London's own, paying tribute to fallen soldiers from the two world wars. The Court of Final Appeal Building, meanwhile, housed the Supreme Court for over 70 years.

11 Address: Statue Square, Des Voeux Road Central, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit K)

Tram

Hong Kong Island's double-decker tram has been in service for over a century, transporting commuters from one end to the other for the cheapest fare in town. Built in 1903, many trams still look like they're from that era, and summer travellers should remember they're often jam-packed and rarely air-conditioned. But if you can brave it, there's arguably no better way to see the city. For a true tourist experience, check out TramOramic Tour, a one-hour trip on an open-top tram.

12 Starting point: Kennedy Town Terminus, Kennedy Town (MTR Kennedy Town Station, Exit C)
Website: hktramways.com/en/tramoramic

Walk this way...

A number of fascinating self-guided walks have been mapped out in Hong Kong to help bring the city to life for curious visitors. Old Town Central is the perfect starting point, with five different walks that take you to the heart of one of Hong Kong's oldest neighbourhoods. History, arts, food and culture, it's all here, a contrasting trip through East and West, past and present, traditions and innovation (see overleaf, p34-35). Alternatively, explore one of Hong Kong's traditional working-class neighbourhoods on a self-guided walk through Sham Shui Po. This area just north of Boundary Street offers a lot of cheap but cheerful experiences that can't be found elsewhere in the city. A humble and deeply authentic district filled with simple pleasures that will live long in the memory (see p36-37).

For more details, pick up an 'Old Town Central' or 'Sham Shui Po' guide at one of our Visitor Centres or visit DiscoverHongKong.com.

Old Town Central self-guided walking tour

1 Possession Street

Possession Street marks the point where the British officially took possession of Hong Kong. Originally on the waterfront, it's now dotted with hip restaurants and boutiques.

2 Chu Wing Kee

This iconic neighbourhood homeware shop is a treasure trove of household goods from a time gone by. Chu Wing Kee is a place where you can find stacks of old-school crockery and teapots and bamboo baskets dangling from the ceiling.

Address: 24 Possession Street, Sheung Wan

3 Tai Ping Shan Street

A number of distinctive ancient temples line the two sides of this 300-metre-long path. The most eye-catching of them all is probably the smoky, red temple called Kwong Fook I Tsz.

4 Upper Lascar Row

Seemingly endless row of antique stores, offering an eclectic collection of Chinese calligraphy, art and vintage furniture. This runs parallel to stalls that sell an array of bric-à-brac collectibles.

5 Man Mo Temple

Man Mo Temple was built between 1847 and 1862, and pays tribute to the Gods of Literature and War. It houses an ancient bronze bell, sedan chair and mural paintings, among other relics.

Address: 124-126 Hollywood Road, Sheung Wan

6 Pak Tsz Lane Park

In 1892, 1 Pak Tsz Lane was the site of the founding of a group of revolutionaries, the Furen Society. In memory, the park features exhibitions and facilities tracing their activities.

Address: Pak Tsz Lane, Central

Plot your route

Refer to p162 for a map of the route

10 Tai Kwun

Comprising the former Central Police Station, Central Magistracy and Victoria Prison, Tai Kwun has undergone revitalisation which was completed in May 2018, and now functions as an arts complex.

Address: 10 Hollywood Road, Central

9 Lan Fong Yuen

Lan Fong Yuen is a popular eatery, as evident from the long queue outside the stall even during non-peak hours. Order yourself a pork chop bun and wash it down with a cup of their signature milk tea.

Address: 2 Gage Street, Central

8 Tai Cheong bakery

Considered the innovator of butter-flavoured shortcrust pastry and with a long history, Tai Cheong Bakery's egg tarts used to be a favourite of the last colonial governor Chris Patten.

Address: 35 Lyndhurst Terrace, Central

7 Graham Street / Hollywood Road

Without a doubt the most photographed example of street art in Hong Kong, local graffiti artist Alex Croft's colourful mural of old townhouses shines a light on the city's iconic tong lau tenement buildings.

Address: Intersection of 46 Graham Street and 48 Hollywood Road, Central

Piqniq

Want to explore more?

Visit DiscoverHongKong.com or scan the QR code to find out more about Old Town Central

11 Piqniq

Piqniq is a dining terrace for the free spirited by day that transforms into a vibrant celebration under the stars.

Address: R/F (Rooftop), H Queen's, 80 Queen's Road Central

Sham Shui Po self-guided walking tour

1 Kung Wo Beancurd Factory

Established in 1960, this old-school store is renowned for its signature beancurd puddings which are smooth as silk and boast a rich soybean flavour.

Address: 118 Pei Ho Street

2 Wong Kee Flea Market

A tiny store filled with a treasure trove of toys, stationery, party décor and other knick-knacks.

Address: 81 Fuk Wing Street

3 Doughnut

A rising local designer backpack label, Doughnut's cute bags and hipster-esque luggage come in many colours and sizes.

Address: 68 Fuk Wa Street

4 Kwan Kee Store

Locals come to this corner eatery for its homemade Chinese sweets. Recommended in Michelin's street food guide, try its bowl puddings - put chai koh - which are made with white or brown sugar and studded with red beans.

Address: 115-117 Fuk Wa Street

5 Apliu Street

This busy street is lined with shops and stalls selling all sorts of electronic gadgets, from the latest mobile phone accessories to vintage typewriters. While you're here, check out Audio Space. This premium audio store featured in the iconic 2002 movie Infernal Affairs.

6 Sam Tai Tsz Temple and Pak Tai Temple

Sam Tai Tsz Temple was built in 1898 by Hakka immigrants to honour their patron deity following a deadly plague. Next door is Pak Tai Temple, built by local fishermen in 1920 to honour the Emperor of the North, the eponymous Pak Tai. Address: 196-198 Yu Chau Street

Plot your route

Refer to p164 for a map of the route

Hop Yik Tai

Pei Ho Street

Kwan Kee Store

11 Hop Yik Tai

Made fresh every day, the delicious cheung fun - rice noodle roll - is incredibly smooth and pairs perfectly with the combination of sweet sauce, sesame sauce and soy sauce.

Address: 121 Kweilin Street

10 Pei Ho Street

This bustling wet market is the perfect place to experience Sham Shui Po like a local. The street is lined with stores and stalls selling fresh fruits and vegetables, meats and all sorts of household necessities.

9 Brothers Leathercraft

Home to fine Italian leathers, as well as tools and accessories for aspiring craftspeople. They also run workshops based in a nearby studio.

Address: 207-209 Tai Nan Street

8 Ki Lung Street (Button Street)

Famous for its wholesale vendors selling garment fasteners, Ki Lung Street is also home to a fabric market that's frequented by local designers. Most stalls open early and close at weekends.

7 Yu Chau Street (Bead Street)

This is where you can shop for all the beads and sewing supplies you'll ever need. If you're not sure where to start, try Mei Tat Hong, which offers a wide range of beads, buttons, ribbons and even high-quality Swarovski crystals. Or visit Mee Ngai Wah, which specialises in costume jewellery.

Want to explore more?

Visit DiscoverHongKong.com or scan the QR code to find out more about Sham Shui Po

Bird Garden & Flower Market

Wake up early to take in Yuen Po Street (Bird Garden), a bustling street filled with all manner of winged creatures. Just as the sun rises, avian pet lovers holding wooden cages chat with fellow owners. On the next block is Flower Market Road, which is dedicated solely to flora. At 10am, the street erupts in an assortment of bright colours and beautiful smells.

13 Address: Bird Garden, Yuen Po Street, Prince Edward, Kowloon (MTR Prince Edward Station, Exit B1); Flower Market, Flower Market Road, Prince Edward, Kowloon (MTR Prince Edward Station, Exit B1)

Hong Kong Disneyland

Madame Tussauds

Bird Garden & Flower Market

Hong Kong Disneyland

The house that the Mouse built, Hong Kong Disneyland is a place where dreams come true. From mystical manors to the futuristic Tomorrowland, classic fairy tale rides to Wild West thrills, the park offers something for everyone, and is now fully expanded with your favourite Marvel and Star Wars characters on board. Spend your day on rides galore, and then stay the night at its family-friendly resort.

14 Address: Lantau Island, 3550 3388 (MTR Disneyland Resort Station)
Website: hongkongdisneyland.com

Madame Tussauds

See all your favourite stars recreated in wax at Madame Tussauds. Set high on The Peak, the museum features over 100 lifelike recreations of the world's greatest celebrities and icons, from the Queen of England to Michael Jackson. Whole sections are also dedicated to Asian names, including Bruce Lee and Jackie Chan, while its souvenir shop lets you take some frozen stardust home.

15 Address: Shop P101, The Peak Tower, 128 Peak Road, The Peak, Hong Kong Island, 2849 6966 (MTR Central Station, Exit J2 to Peak Tram)
Website: madametussauds.com

Monopoly Dreams Hong Kong

Based on the world-famous board game, Monopoly Dreams is the first Monopoly-themed attraction in the world. Recently opened at The Peak, the most expensive title deed in the Hong Kong edition of the game, the 20,000 square-foot indoor and outdoor space promises visitors a life-sized immersive experience featuring AR, hologram and 4DX interactive game technology.

16 Address: Shop 301, 3/F, Peak Galleria, 118 Peak Road, The Peak, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit J2 to Peak Tram)
Website: monopolydreams.com/hk/en

Ngong Ping 360

Start your journey into Lantau Island at Ngong Ping 360. Hop aboard the Crystal Cabin, a glass-bottomed cable car that offers sweeping 360-views all across the island, from dense foliage through to its gorgeous surrounding waters. You then arrive at Ngong Ping Village, a retro-inspired tourist town with plenty of shopping and dining options. And from there, it's just a short five-minute walk to Lantau Island's best sights, including The Big Buddha and Po Lin Monastery.

17 Address: Ngong Ping, Lantau Island, 3666 0606 (MTR Tung Chung Station, Exit B)
Website: np360.com.hk

Ngong Ping 360

Noah's Ark

Noah's Ark on Ma Wan Island recreates the biblical vessel that is said to have saved civilisation. The park is designed to appeal to all ages, with stunning Tsing Ma Bridge views from the replica ark, multimedia presentations in the expo, animal sculptures in the gardens and lessons among the many education halls and exhibition spaces.

18 Address: 33 Pak Yan Road, Ma Wan, New Territories, 3411 8888 (Central Pier 2)
Website: noahsark.com.hk

Noah's Ark

sky100

sky100

Ocean Park Hong Kong

Ocean Park isn't just for the little ones, with plenty to enjoy for thrill seekers of all ages. Marvel at underwater oddities in the massive aquarium. See foxes, sea lions and pandas in its many enclosures. And let the adrenaline flow through thrilling rides all across the park, from raging rivers to rollercoasters. Weekends are often packed, so drop in on a school day to beat the queues.

19 Address: Wong Chuk Hang, Hong Kong Island, 3923 2323 (MTR Ocean Park Station, Exit B)
Website: oceanpark.com.hk

Hong Kong's tallest building, the 118-floor International Commerce Centre towers over the Kowloon skyline. One of the best ways to experience it is at sky100, an observation deck on the 100th floor with 360-degree vistas of the entire cityscape. Interactive exhibitions also dig into the history of Hong Kong, while a photo booth uses augmented reality to create cool backdrops.

20 Address: 100/F International Commerce Centre, 1 Austin Road West, Kowloon, 2613 3888 (MTR Kowloon Station, Exit C1)
Website: sky100.com.hk

Evolution of a skyline

ICC

ICC is currently Hong Kong's tallest building. It's part of a bigger project, totalling 17 hectares of land coverage on top of Kowloon Station. The super tall office tower has a luxurious hotel and viewing platform on top. The ICC Light and Music Show is displayed twice every night, at 7:45pm and then at 9:00pm, and brings the city alive with dynamic lights and colours.

International Finance Centre

The ifc actually consists of two skyscrapers, Tower 1 and Tower 2, as well as a mall and a hotel. Tower 2 is Hong Kong Island's tallest building. Together with ICC across the harbour, the dual super high-rises on Hong Kong Island and Kowloon serve as gateways to the city. On the top of Tower 2 is a sculptural crown; when it's lit at night, it's visible from miles away, which is a welcoming gesture to the harbour.

Jardine House

Formerly known as Connaught Centre, Jardine House was the city's tallest building when it was completed in 1972. It was the first skyscraper in Hong Kong. It's a unique building featuring a circular window design, allowing it to be structurally stronger than those with traditional rectangular windows.

As the architect behind such iconic structures as Central Plaza and the Convention and Exhibition Centre, Dennis Lau has played a large part in defining Hong Kong's skyline. Here, he gives us a panoramic rundown of some of the city's key skyscrapers, from still-standing '70s structures to contemporary super high-rises.

Hopewell Centre

When completed in 1980, this 64-storey skyscraper surpassed Connaught Centre as the city's tallest building. It has Hong Kong's highest revolving restaurant on the top floor, which overlooks the harbour and buildings below.

Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre

This is a world-class facility, holding many international convention and exhibition events. It's consistently busy all year, and one of the few convention centres in the world to have hotels, offices and apartments all under one roof. Built in 1985, its foundation stone was laid by Queen Elizabeth II, and marks the last time she visited the city during the colonial era.

Central Plaza

When it was completed in 1992, Central Plaza was the tallest building outside North America. Its unique triangular design means most rooms enjoy harbour views. A neon clock is set on its top, similar to a clock tower, but with its time indicated through different coloured displays at 15 minute intervals. The Sky Lobby on the 46th floor offers one of the best free views in the city, with a 360-degree panorama.

Kat Hing Wai Walled Village

Kat Hing Wai Walled Village

Hong Kong was once defined by its walled villages, and while the borders of the past have been largely removed, remnants still exist on the city's fringes. Kat Hing Wai is one of the last remaining, a 500-year-old walled village still inhabited by the descendants of its founders. An age-old guardhouse and moat welcome you within its walls, while narrow alleyways and ancient abodes offer up slices of the area's history.

21 Address: Kam Tin, Yuen Long, New Territories (MTR Kam Sheung Road Station, Exit B)

Kowloon Walled City Park

Discover more

The Kowloon Walled City might be long gone, but you can still catch glimpses of it in such classic movies as Jean-Claude Van Damme's Bloodsport and Jackie Chan's Crime Story.

Kowloon Walled City Park

Kowloon Walled City was once a China outpost that turned into a lawless town, a triad-run enclave of ever-increasing illegal settlements. Torn down in 1993, this gorgeous park pays tribute while acting as a contrast to its history, and you'd never tell it was once the city's most notorious area. Still standing are the 170-year-old Yamen, now converted into an exhibition space, alongside the old South Gate and numerous pavilions. Free guided tours are available to groups.

22 Address: Tung Tsing Road, Kowloon City, Kowloon (MTR Lok Fu Station, Exit B)

Man Mo Temple

Man Mo Temple

In one of Hong Kong's hippest areas sits Man Mo Temple, a stunning tribute to the Gods of Literature (Man) and War (Mo). Built in 1847, it was once a place of arbitration, but now stands as a striking worship hall – a smoky assortment of massive incense coils, red-and-gold thatched staircases, ancient sedan chairs, as well as altars to its Buddhist and Taoist deities.

23 Address: 124-126 Hollywood Road, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2)

Man Mo Temple

Ping Shan Heritage Trail

Take a walk on the historic side, with the Ping Shan Heritage Trail. Grouping a number of Hong Kong's dynastic sites, the 1.6 km trail starts at the Tsui Sing Lau pagoda, a 600-year-old guard post, before winding through a 200-year-old walled village, Sheung Cheung Wai. You'll then come across the ancient temples of Yeung Hau and Hung Shing, before experiencing the stunning halls of Tang, Yu Kiu and Kun Ting. Finish up at a former colonial police station, converted into a gallery and visitor centre.

24 Address: Ping Shan, Yuen Long, New Territories (MTR Tin Shui Wai Station, Exit E)

Wong Tai Sin Temple

Known in full as the Sik Sik Yuen Wong Tai Sin Temple, it is said to hold a sacred portrait of the namesake monk deity. It sees visitors come from far and wide for its promise to 'make every wish come true upon request'. But you don't have to be a true believer to appreciate its impressive display of feng shui in action, with the five elements spread across its pavilion, hall, fountain, wall and shrine.

25 Address: 2 Chuk Yuen Village, Wong Tai Sin, Kowloon (MTR Wong Tai Sin Station, Exit B2)

Flagstaff House Museum of Tea Ware

Once the abode of Hong Kong's British forces commander, Flagstaff House is now home to a museum dedicated to the history and culture of tea. It's a rainy day favourite, with permanent exhibitions focusing on tea ware, while ever-revolving showcases dig deep into historic relics. Other activities include flower arranging, classical music recitals and of course, tea tastings.

26 Address: Hong Kong Park, 10 Cotton Tree Drive, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Admiralty Station, Exit C1)

Hong Kong Heritage Museum

Hong Kong's captivating sense of culture, a hodgepodge of British, Chinese and other traditions, is showcased at the Heritage Museum. Set far out in Sha Tin, its permanent galleries are dedicated to art and opera, while revolving exhibitions explore everything from martial arts to fashion. Most impressive is its long-running Bruce Lee retrospective, held until July 2020, presenting more than 600 pieces of rare memorabilia.

27 Address: 1 Man Lam Road, Sha Tin, New Territories (MTR Che Kung Temple Station, Exit A)
Website: heritagemuseum.govhk

Hong Kong News-Expo

Opened at the end of 2018, the first news-oriented exhibition venue in Asia breathes new life into the historic, Bauhaus-style building that was formerly Bridges Street Market. Explore Hong Kong's media industry past and present by viewing vintage newspapers, old news footage and various multimedia exhibits. You can also get a taste of being a news anchor in an interactive booth.

28 Address: 2 Bridges Street, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit E2)
Website: hkne.org.hk

Hong Kong Museum of History

Trace millions of years of Hong Kong's varied past at the fascinating Museum of History. Detailed dioramas do much of the heavy lifting, from early cavemen dwellings through to our humble fishing village beginnings, from the city's colonial growth to its esteemed contemporary standing. It's all here, alongside fascinating archaeological finds, diverse multimedia showcases and special exhibitions on heritage topics.

29 Address: 100 Chatham Road South, Tsim Sha Tsui East, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit B2)
Website: hk.historymuseum

Yau Ma Tei Theatre

Catch a nostalgic glimpse of vintage Hong Kong at Kowloon's only surviving pre-World War II theatre. Opened in 1930 as a cinema (the first screenings were all silent movies), it's a fine example of the architecture of that period, displaying a glamorous blend of Art Deco and neoclassical styles. Following major renovation, the theatre was reborn in 2012 as a centre for Cantonese opera with various troupes using the space for performances and rehearsals. Guided tours are available – see the theatre website for details.

30 Address: 6 Waterloo Road, Kowloon (MTR Yau Ma Tei Station, Exit B2)
Website: lcsd.gov.hk

A chef in a white uniform is pouring tea from a large silver teapot into a floral teapot on a table. The background shows a busy restaurant with other diners and tables. The lighting is warm and the atmosphere is lively.

Dining

Cantonese tastes and Greater China flavours. High-end hotel fare, alongside greasy late-night favourites. Whatever your taste buds crave, Hong Kong's restaurants have it.

Dishing out on dim sum and then digging into Dover sole. A lunchbox heavy on the greasy roast goose followed by a luxurious dinner in a chic hotel. Dining out in Hong Kong is all about its many differences. Pair the high with the low, with a side of everything in between, to truly take in one of the world's best foodie destinations.

Pull up a plastic stool at a cooked food centre, before lording over a Chinese banquet at an elegant tycoon restaurant. Share mezze platters and humble pasta plates, and then see chefs push contemporary boundaries at award-winning international restaurants. It's an assortment of experiences – and with over 10,000 eateries in the city, you'll never be without a decent meal.

Dundas Street

For those seeking a range of tasty morsels at bargain prices, head to Dundas Street in Mong Kok, where tiny stalls dish out classic Hong Kong street snacks, including curry fish balls and siu mai (pork and fish dumplings), alongside a range of flavours from all across Asia. Deep-fried octopus balls from Japan? Fresh bai wei cold noodles and spicy sauce from Taiwan? It's all here.

1 Address: Dundas Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon (MTR Mong Kok Station, Exit E2)

Kam's Roast Goose

Roast goose is a Hong Kong staple, a gorgeously greasy dish that many places promise to make right, but few ever do. Kam's is arguably the best, the tiny one-Michelin-star spot seeing lines around the block at any time of the day. Beat the crowds and get a takeaway box. Chow down in nearby Southern Playground, and then do a taste-test at Joy Hing, another age-old roast goose takeaway favourite.

2 Address: a) Kam's Roast Goose, Po Wah Commercial Centre, 226 Hennessy Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2520 1110; b) Joy Hing 265-267 Hennessy Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong, 2519 6639 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A4)

Website: krg.com.hk

Dundas Street

Kwan Kee Bamboo Noodle

Fresh noodle making is a real art and rare is the chef who uses the age-old bamboo technique these days. But head to Kwan Kee and you can catch the masters at work, before enjoying an incredibly fresh bowl. The signature noodles are paired with a variety of flavours, from standard shrimp and beef slices to such acquired tastes as cuttlefish and pig trotters. We particularly recommend the tasty shrimp wonton bowl (wonton meen, in Cantonese).

3 Address: 1E Wing Lung Street, Cheung Sha Wan, Kowloon, 3484 9126 (MTR Cheung Sha Wan Station, Exit C)

Kam's Roast Goose

Kwan Kee Bamboo Noodle

Luk Yu Tea House

Luk Yu Tea House

Dishing out dim sum to the city's elite since 1933, this exclusive restaurant has plenty of old-world charm, and features long-forgotten dishes done just as well today as they were decades ago. All the standards are here, alongside jumbo chicken buns, fish maw and liver. It's not cheap, and those seeking a more working-class experience should head to Lin Heung Tea Room, a frantic dim sum cart spot nearby.

- 4 Address: a) Luk Yu Tea House, 24-26 Stanley Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2523 5464; b) Lin Heung Tea Room, 162 Wellington Street, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island, 2544 4556 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: lukyuteahouse.com

Mido Café

Just above Temple Street sits this humble cha chaan teng (Hong Kong-style diner), famed not so much for its food as its atmosphere, a time warp setting that feels like something out of a vintage Hong Kong movie. The dishes aren't particularly special, simple egg sandwiches and noodle bowls, but on a hot summer's day, as a stop-in for a quick snack and a glass of iced yuenyeung (coffee mixed with tea), you can't beat it.

- 5 Address: 63 Temple Street, Yau Ma Tei, Kowloon, 2384 6402 (MTR Yau Ma Tei Station, Exit B2)

Shun Kee Typhoon Shelter

In the good old days, typhoon shelters were popular dining spots: moored kitchen-boats serving all manner of local cuisine, while patrons riding motorboats chose dishes by darting in and out, before parking for dinner. The experience is long gone, but you can relive a bit of those glory days at Shun Kee. The floating 'restaurant' is actually a set of sampans (wooden boats) linked together, and dishes are classic typhoon shelter-style: think lots of garlic-heavy seafood. Reservations essential.

- 6 Address: Causeway Bay Typhoon Shelter, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 8112 0075 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit D1)

Discover more

Cooked food centres came about in the 1970s, when the government moved food sellers off the streets. There's one in nearly every district, and each offers quality, affordable Asian cuisine.

Sing Kee

The humble Hong Kong dai pai dong (outdoor restaurant) is largely a thing of the past, with the government moving the majority of them into cooked food centres back in the '70s. But the street-side vendors on Stanley Street survived, and Sing Kee is a greasy-spoon favourite, perfect for an early morning snack or late-night nosh. Popular choices include salt & pepper squid, sweet & sour pork and such acquired tastes as liver.

7 Address: 82 Stanley Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2541 5678 (MTR Hong Kong Station, Exit C)

Sing Kee Seafood

The seafood restaurants lining along the Sai Kung harbour are a sight to see: dozens of eateries, each with their own fish tanks, allowing diners to pick and choose their grilled and garlic-flavoured choices. Sing Kee is a favourite among regulars, a one-Michelin-star spot that not only dishes out incredible from-the-deep delights right on the waterfront (order the steamed scallops), but is just as famous for its crispy chicken. Reservations recommended.

8 Address: 33 Sai Kung Tai Street, Sai Kung, New Territories, 2791 9887 (MTR Choi Hung Station, Exit C2, then minibus 1A)

Tung Po

Immortalised in Anthony Bourdain's TV show, and incredibly popular with tourists because of it, Tung Po is nevertheless still an experience – a massive cooked food centre restaurant, where the music blares Michael Jackson, the servers are all kooky, beers are poured into bowls, and dishes are as comforting as they come. Fried garlic chicken, giant mantis shrimp, shrimp deep-fried in duck yolk, and best of all, squid ink pasta with cuttlefish. Reservations are essential.

9 Address: 2/F Java Road Municipal Services Building, 99 Java Road, North Point, Hong Kong Island, 2880 5224 (MTR North Point Station, Exit A1)

Under Bridge Spicy Crab

The name isn't metaphorical: it's literally located under a bridge, a popular spot for its delicious crab smothered in heaps of spicy peppers. It's best visited on a rowdy weekend, with endless orders of Tsing Tao beers to chase away the fiery flavours. There are actually three restaurants, each bearing the same name and all in the same vicinity, but each of them is of a similar standard.

10 Address: Various locations, including 421 Lockhart Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2893 1289 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit C)
Website: underspicycrab.com

China Tang

China Tang

The late Sir David Tang's impact on modern Hong Kong culture isn't to be underestimated. But his greatest contribution might be to Hong Kong food, and nowhere is that better exemplified than at his China Tang restaurants. Exclusive old-world settings, a British-influenced mix of Cantonese and regional cuisine, and a hefty price tag that's worth it for the exceptional experience. It's not classic Chinese, it's not quite colonial.

- 12 Address: a) Landmark Atrium, Shop 411-413, 4/F, 15 Queen's Road Central, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2522 2148 (MTR Central Station, Exit G); b) Gateway Arcade, Shop 4101, 4/F, Harbour City, 17 Canton Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2157 3148 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit L5)
Website: chinatang.hk

ABC Kitchen

ABC Kitchen didn't open till long after the handover, but its colonial ties are stronger than most. Both its chef and head waiter are formerly of M at the Fringe, a restaurant steeped in Hong Kong's British history. When it closed in 2009, the pair decided to recreate all that culinary glory in a cooked food centre. The fluorescent-lit shabby surroundings provide a wonderful contrast to ABC's menu: high-end cuisine in a low-rent setting.

- 11 Address: Shop CF7, Food Market, 1 Queen Street, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island, 9278 8227 (MTR Sai Ying Pun Station, Exit A2)
Website: abckitchen.com.hk

Hong Kong Typhoon Shelter in Aberdeen was originally a safe haven for fishermen. Based on everyday life experiences, the local fishermen established unique recipes, which have become some of the best-loved traditional dishes in Hong Kong and are now known as the Typhoon Shelter cuisine.

Hee Kee Fried Crab Expert
First Restaurant:
Shop 1-4, Ground Floor,
379-389 Jaffe Road, Wanchai, Hong Kong
Opening Hours: 12:00pm - 04:30am
MTR Causeway Bay Station: Exit C
Tel: (852) 2893 7565
www.heekee.hk

Hee Kee Fried Crab Expert
New Branch:
Shop E, Ground Floor, Po Wing Bldg.,
73 Lee Garden Road, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong
Opening Hours: 11:00am - 12:00am
MTR Causeway Bay station: Exit F1
Tel: (852) 2488 6665 or 2488 8465
Fax: (852) 2488 6165

The Chinnery

An age-old hotel, a tucked-away location, limited tables and a warm whisky bar. Everything about The Chinnery screams old-fashioned member's club, but this one's open to the public – if you have a reservation. Sink into its upholstered chairs, order up a tankard of ale or a nicely aged Scotch, and take in its particular brand of classic British cuisine. Scotch eggs, calf's liver, Dover sole, and a very healthy helping of sauce-heavy Indian dishes.

13 Address: 1/F, Mandarin Oriental Hong Kong, 5 Connaught Road Central, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2825 4009 (MTR Central Station, Exit H)
Website: mandarinoriental.com

Tai Ping Koon

Jimmy's Kitchen

Hong Kong's oldest Western restaurant and a perennial favourite for colonial fare, Jimmy's has been serving its distinctive brand of East-West flavours since 1928. The menu's changed little since, and alongside such British standards as bangers & mash and shepherd's pie, expect to find long-forgotten dishes such as Steak Diane, Beef Wellington and the famed Baked Alaska, an ice-cream sponge that's ceremoniously flambéed tableside. For nostalgia-filled visitors, Jimmy's is a must.

14 Address: South China Building, 1 Wyndham Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2526 5293 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: jimmys.com

Tai Ping Koon

'Soy-sauce Western' – it's what we call a particular brand of Hong Kong cuisine, one that slightly resembles colonial, but has been modified to suit Chinese palates. Tai Ping Koon was arguably the originator, a restaurant dating back to 1860. Here, among bow-tied waiters and snug brown leather booths, you'll find such dishes as baked escargot, roast pigeon and the renowned 'Swiss-style' chicken wings – named not for the country, but a mispronunciation of 'sweet'.

15 Address: Various locations, including 60 Stanley Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2899 2780 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: taipingkoon.com

Dishing out on dim sum

Siu Mai

Siu mai is also very traditional, it's a pork and shrimp dumpling, and is often seen as a very 'working class' type of dim sum. Because of that, it can sometimes be quite basic. At my restaurant, I change it up, sometimes adding caviar or maybe some Yunnan ham.

Har Gow

When I started out in the 1950s, there weren't many dim sum choices. It was all very traditional, just the standards. Har gow is one of the oldest, a simple blend of shrimp in thin-skin wrapping. But it's what you put inside that matters, and I use different combinations: goji berries, crab meat, dried scallops.

Vegetable dumplings

Traditionally, it's a thin-skin wrapping, surrounding all sorts of vegetables and fungus. We mix it up, though: we shape them as triangles, we sometimes use carrot or spinach juice to add colour to the skin.

Dim sum is a staple of Hong Kong's diet, and nobody knows it better than chef Chan Yan-tak. As the world's first three-Michelin-star Chinese chef, the Lung King Heen maestro has been serving it up since the early '50s. Here, he dishes out on traditional methods used to make the morsels, and how they've changed as the city has evolved.

Xiao Long Bao

Xiao long bao are pork dumplings filled with soup. They're very thin-skinned, and are difficult to eat because they often burst when picked up with chopsticks. So I created individual mini-bamboo baskets, so that they're easier to handle. And since they're originally from Shanghai, I give them a Hong Kong touch, by adding some scallops or crab meat.

Char Siu Bao

Char siu bao (barbecue pork bun) is old-school favourite. Traditionally, it's roast pork in a fluffy bun - but I came up with the idea to blend it with the classic pineapple bun, so the outer crust is crunchy and sweet, and the inner is soft and juicy. A lot of restaurants do it that way now, too.

Din Tai Fung

Xiao long bao – those wonderful dumplings from Shanghai, delicate and thin-skinned, but filled to the brim with soupy goodness. Making them is a real art and despite originally being from Taiwan, the Din Tai Fung chain has all but mastered it. Order a basket per person as soon as you enter (yes, they're that good) and make sure to match it with their many other specialities: green beans with pork, sautéed shrimp and hot & sour soup, among them.

16 Address: Various locations, including G3-11, 68 Yee Wo Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 3160 8998 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit F1)
Website: dintaifung.com.hk

Spring Deer

For almost 50 years, Spring Deer has been serving some of the best Beijing cuisine in Hong Kong. Hidden upstairs on a neon-lit strip of Tsim Sha Tsui, it's a simple place of banquet tables and surly waiters – but it's the food that impresses, with a remarkable range of northern China favourites. The standout is the Peking duck: crispy and juicy, carved tableside and served with steamed pancakes and sweet bean sauce. The restaurant is a local favourite, so you'll need to reserve well in advance.

17 Address: 42 Mody Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2366 4012 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit P1)

Zhejiang Heen

Zhe Jiang Heen

Yu

Sichuan's spices are some of the hottest in the world, and those with a taste for them should head down to Yu, a tiny spot in Causeway Bay. Dare your mouth with fiery dishes such as spicy chicken, pork dumplings and a range of pickled vegetables. Most popular is the dandanmian, homemade noodles with minced pork in a mouth-numbing sauce – it comes in different levels of heat, so even the weakest palate will be able to appreciate it. Pair it with a cucumber soy milk and your tongue will thank you.

18 Address: 4 Yiu Wa Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2838 8198 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit A)

There once was a time, when if you wanted great Zhejiang cuisine, you had to tag along with a connected friend to one of the members-only restaurants in town. Zhejiang Heen changed that though, its relaxed Wan Chai setting, affordable prices and authentic tastes making it a more than worthy alternative. Experience the comforting flavours of eastern China, including golden prawn balls, deep-fried chicken, fried eel and the wonderful fish head cooked two ways.

19 Address: 2/F & 3/F, Kiu Fu Commercial Building, 300-306 Lockhart Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2877 9011 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A1)
Website: zhejiangheen.com

Bo Innovation

Alvin Leung's devilish practice of ripping apart classic Chinese dishes and piecing them together in extreme new ways helps to explain why they call him the 'demon chef'. It's also what keeps Bo Innovation high on the list of Hong Kong's hottest restaurants. Sometimes it's molecular-inspired, sometimes it's old-school favourites brought back into the fold. But whatever he's serving, it's always according to the season. With a three-Michelin-star rating, this might just be Hong Kong's most inimitable restaurant.

20

Address: Shop 8, 60 Johnston Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2850 8371 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A3)

Website: boinnovation.com

Ho Lee Fook

Ho Lee Fook

Fa Zu Jie

Down a dark alley, among the endless bustle of Lan Kwai Fong's bar district, lies one of the best private kitchens in the city. Featuring only a handful of tables, Fa Zu Jie presents an impressive fusion of Chinese and French cuisines. It's a prix-fixe menu that's constantly changing according to the season, but expect such favourites as drunken quail, scallops in shrimp roe and Shanghai duck confit. Reservations absolutely essential.

21

Address: 1/F, 20A D'Aguiar Street, Lan Kwai Fong, Central, Hong Kong Island, 3487 1715 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)

22

Address: 1 Elgin Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2810 0860 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)

Website: www.holeefook.com.hk

A cheeky name for a cheeky take on classic Cantonese cooking, chef Jowett Yu's modern spin on diner cuisine is all about simplicity. Dishes are refined and contemporary: clean takes on barbecued meats, drunken clams tossed with fresh herbs, and alcohol-infused bubble tea. It's a little bit retro, a little bit home-style, but always to a high standard. The no-reservation policy coupled with its SoHo location means it's constantly busy. Drop in early on a weekday to secure a table.

Amber

Two-Michelin-starred Amber is easily one of Hong Kong's finest. The restaurant is a veritable showcase for esteemed chef Richard Ekkebus, and he uses it to play around with his particular brand of high-end contemporary cuisine. Each dish is an artfully plated little masterpiece, using only the finest ingredients: abalone, blue lobster, Wagyu beef. Even a minor meal will set you back a pretty penny, and reservations are an absolute must.

23 Address: 7/F, The Landmark, Mandarin Oriental, 15 Queen's Road Central, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2132 0066 (MTR Central Station, Exit G)
Website: amberhongkong.com

Gaddi's

Belle Époque-inspired Gaddi's first opened its doors in the 1950s. It serves classic French fare, such as foie gras with coulis, pigeon stuffed with liver, chocolate fondant covered in cream. Heavy on the sauces, but hey, you only live once. The Peninsula has two other great restaurants: top-floor spot Felix, and chalet-like restaurant Chesa. Reservations recommended.

24 Address: All restaurants: The Peninsula Hong Kong, Salisbury Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2696 6763 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit E)
Website: hongkong.peninsula.com

Discover more

The Michelin Guide has been in Hong Kong since 2008, dishing out stars to some of our best restaurants. Check out its Bib Gourmand section for good, cheap eats.

Gaddi's

L'Atelier de Joël Robuchon

L'Atelier de Joël Robuchon

It's on the World's 50 Best Restaurants list and holds three Michelin stars. At Robuchon, it's all about your preferences: relaxed in the Atelier restaurant or sushi-style on the Le Jardin counter, traditional French favourites or innovative contemporary choices, à la carte or prix-fixe. And with Le Salon de Thé and Le Café downstairs, the assortment is near endless.

25 Address: Shop 315 & 401, The Landmark, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2166 9000 (MTR Central Station, Exit G)
Website: www.robuchon.hk

Lung King Heen

As you'd expect from the Four Seasons' premier Chinese restaurant, Lung King Heen is very fancy, an upscale take on traditional Chinese flavours, often awarded three Michelin stars. Dim sum, barbecued meats and wok-fried dishes are raised to stellar heights by Executive Chef Chan Yan Tak and team. Keep in mind, you'll pay for the privilege. Book well in advance.

26 Address: Podium 4, Four Seasons Hotel Hong Kong, 8 Finance Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 3196 8888 (MTR Hong Kong Station, Exit F)
Website: fourseasons.com/hongkong

Amporn Thai

Kowloon City is often called Little Thailand, and for good reason, with large sections of the country's immigrants living in the area. For foodies, that means plenty of authentic Thai restaurants, including Amporn, a popular cooked food centre spot. It's all about heaping plates of Thai favourites at affordable prices: pungent curries, steamed fish, and their ever-popular shrimp sashimi. Amporn is cheap as chips, making the trek out here more than worth it.

27 Address: Shop 9, 3/F, 48 Hau Wong Road, Kowloon City, Kowloon, 2383 1700 (MTR Prince Edward Station, Exit A, then take bus 1A)

Chicken HOF &amp; SOJU

Chicken HOF & SOJU

Long before it was a hot hipster trend, the folks at HOF & SOJU were serving up some of the city's finest Korean fried chicken. The restaurant chain is a late-night favourite, with lines stretching around the block on any given weekend. Slip into a cosy wooden booth, order up one of their delicious plates of crispy chicken and pair it all with some thirst-quenching lager, while K-Pop blares in the background.

28 Address: Various locations, including 82-84 Kimberley Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2375 8080 (MTR Jordan Station, Exit D)

Amporn Thai

Electric Ave

Electric Ave

Up-and-coming Sai Ying Pun is quickly establishing itself as a hotbed for entrepreneurial chefs and their humble, passionate restaurants. Electric Ave is one of the very best, a hole-in-the-wall burger joint serving a range of innovative, ever-changing meaty sandwiches, topped with such heart-clogging fare as Japanese eggs, pancetta, truffle cream and Manchego cheese. With a side of bone marrow-doused fries and a cold craft beer, it sure hits the spot.

29 Address: 301 Queen's Road West, Sai Ying Pun, Hong Kong Island (MTR Sai Ying Pun, Exit B1)

Le Bistro Winebeast

With a name stemming from its sister wine store, Winebeast is run by a husband-and-wife team, a pair that adore French cuisine and want to share it with Hong Kong. Menus are seasonal, but expect staples, including duck confit, veal mignon, and a wonderful selection of cheeses. Wine is priced similar to the store, and dishes are affordable considering the quality.

30 Address: G/F Newman House, 35-45 Johnston Road, Wan Chai, 2782 6689 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A3)
Website: lebistrowinebeast.com

Maison Libanaise

Hip Lebanese cuisine, in an expat-centric area, with rooftop views of locals going about their evenings – the kind of contrast you'd only ever find in Hong Kong. Maison Libanaise has made its mark through excellent mezze-style plates and clever cocktail concoctions, at affordable prices compared to its SoHo neighbours. No reservations, so be prepared to queue. If you can't stand the wait, they also do a great selection of takeaway dishes.

31 Address: 10 Shelley Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2111 2284 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: maisonlibanaise.com.hk

Pici

On a quiet backstreet in a trendy part of Wan Chai, Pici is a bright, airy restaurant that recreates the traditional Italian trattoria experience. The menu is small, with just a handful of starters and pastas – but what it lacks in variety, Pici more than makes up for in authenticity. Paired with an affordable glass of table-wine or maybe an Aperol Spritz on a weekend afternoon, you'd be forgiven for thinking this was a small-town restaurant somewhere in Italy.

32 Address: G/F, 16 St. Francis Yard, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A4)
Website: pici.hk

Shopping

Daytime markets and late-night bazaars. Hip districts full of indie stores and massive malls with hundreds of outlets. Shopping in Hong Kong defies definition.

Shopping is almost a national pastime in Hong Kong, a place where anything can be had if you look hard enough. Whether you've come prepared with extra luggage space or just browsing with your carry-on, our all-day markets, massive malls, chic precincts and high-end stores offer shopping prospects where the experience is as important as the things on offer.

Sift through Cat Street's antiques by day, and then cross the harbour to its nocturnal counterpart in Temple Street. Browse hipster stores in Wan Chai, and then make your way through Causeway Bay's frantic mini-malls. Rummage for hidden finds in piled-up vintage stores, and then get fitted for a classic suit at a refined tailor. Whatever you desire, it's here.

Cat Street

Just below the art galleries and restaurants of Hollywood Road, Cat Street is a longstanding antiques market that stocks items from as far back as the Ming dynasty. Sift through ramshackle stalls and stroll into well-maintained stores to find relics from the Cultural Revolution, vestiges from colonial times, ancient jade jewellery and an assortment of quirky items from Hong Kong's past. Keep in mind, some pieces are reproductions, and make sure to bargain.

- 1 Address: Upper Lascar Row, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)

Ladies' Market

Everything and anything – that's pretty much what you'll find at Ladies' Market, Hong Kong's most diverse outdoor market, selling everything from souvenir trinkets to whole bedroom setups. Grab an 'I Love HK' t-shirt, deck yourself out in a classic Chinese getup, or pick up something ornamental for your home. Quality ranges from fairly high to incredibly low, and knock-offs are everywhere. Check each item individually and make sure to bargain hard.

- 2 Address: Tung Choi Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon (MTR Mong Kok Station, Exit E2)

Li Yuen Street East & West

Among the endless bustle of Hong Kong's swankiest area, the twin Li Yuen Streets (often simply called the 'Central lanes') are like mini-versions of our larger street markets. Dedicated stalls sell traditional Chinese get-ups, including cheongsams and changshans, while their many neighbours vend watches, handbags and a variety of Hong Kong-focused souvenirs. It's a fascinating street market diversion within our financial district.

- 3 Address: Li Yuen Street East & West, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit C)

Ladies' Market

Stanley Market

Out in idyllic Stanley, a tranquil waterfront town of low-rise homes and independent restaurants, lies this street market. It's a veritable cornucopia of goods and souvenirs, with clothes, artwork, luggage and everything in between for sale. The market is a daytime affair, perfect for a gentle morning's saunter among the back alleys. Locals shop here, but there's definitely a strong expat focus, one that's obvious in the large-sized clothing and reproduction western paintings.

4 Address: Stanley Market Road, Stanley, Hong Kong Island (Bus 6, 6A, 6X, 66 or 260)

Stanley Market

Discover more

Catch a free show at Temple Street every night. In the park around the corner from the fortune tellers, Chinese opera singers perform, while couples dance along.

Temple Street

Temple Street is like a night-time shopping excursion through Hong Kong's past. Unlike neighbouring Ladies Market, the focus is strongly on vintage trinkets and such goods. Expect to see age-old statues, paintings of our city landscapes, whole stalls dedicated to jade, as well as a number of palm readers willing to tell your future. After your retail therapy, stop by for a beer and a snack at one of its many outdoor food stalls.

5 Address: Temple Street, Yau Ma Tei, Kowloon (MTR Yau Ma Tei Station, Exit C)

Temple Street

Island Beverley

Island Beverley

Island Beverley is where Hong Kong's young and fashionable spend their weekends shopping, a frenzied mall in the middle of bustling Causeway Bay, with dozens of stores stocking regional fashion. Items are either locally made, or imported from stores around the region (Japan, Korea, Taiwan), with a definite focus on what's currently in vogue. Meanwhile, across the harbour, Allied Plaza is a mall where Kowloon's stylish shop.

- 6 Address: a) Island Beverley, 1 Great George Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2890 6823 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit E);
 b) Allied Plaza, 760 Nathan Road, Prince Edward, Kowloon (MTR Prince Edward Station, Exit B2)

Kapok

Kapok

It's hipster heaven at Kapok, stocking clothes, bags, shoes, watches and a range of homeware and accessories. Pick up a plaid shirt, slap on some oversized sunglasses, pair it all with sandals and socks, and grab a man-purse while you're at it. They have a few stores around town, but the best is in Starstreet Precinct, a cool area with fellow chic stores Japanese brand 45R and design-focused Eclectic Cool.

- 7 Address: a) Kapok, various locations including 8 Sun Street, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2549 9254; b) 45R, 7 Star Street, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2861 1145; c) Eclectic Cool, 5 Sun Street, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 5699 6882 (MTR Admiralty Station, Exit F)
Websites: ka-pok.com; 45rpm.jp; eclectic-cool.com

Eclectic Cool

Lok Man Rare Books

You wouldn't immediately associate Hong Kong with rare books, but our varied history has resulted in a slew of polished stores selling hard-to-find tomes. Lok Man is one of the best, with first editions, signed copies, complete sets and a whole section dedicated to Hong Kong itself, ranging from ancient China to our colonial ties. Other rare booksellers include Indosiam Bookstore.

8 Address: 6 Chancery Lane, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2868 1056 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: lokmanbooks.com

Me & George

How do you get a truly unique look? Vintage of course, and there's no better place to rummage through racks of long-gone styles than at Me & George. The biggest vintage fashion chain in Hong Kong, it has stores all over the city. They're often ramshackle looking places, but don't let that put you off: here you'll find high-end brands alongside low-grade fast-fashion, oddball pieces from Japan alongside retro-Italian couture. It's worth the search.

9 Address: Various locations, including 64 Tung Choi Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon (MTR Mong Kok Station, Exit E2)

PoHo

A cool, quiet area located above the bustle of Sheung Wan's Hollywood Road, PoHo and its many side streets are where some of the city's most unique designers gather. Shop for hand-curated selection of goods ranging from music, cosmetics and books, to even stylish, ready-to-wear outfits at Château Zoobeetle, then peek at Swedish-designed watches at squarestreet. Finish it all off with bottled craft beer at Craftissimo.

10 Address: a) Château Zoobeetle, 38 Sai Street, Poho, Hong Kong, 2559 8555; b) squarestreet, 15 Square Street, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island, 2362 1086; c) Craftissimo, 22-24A Tai Ping Shan Street, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island, 6274 3130 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2)
Websites: zoobeetle.com; www.squarestreet.se; craftissimo.hk

Artisan shopping

Home sweet home

LaLa Curio (32-33 Sau Wa Fong) is the place for those who love home décor, with playfully handcrafted furnishings, decorative objects and hand-painted wallpapers. For food lovers, wander along Shanghai Street to pick up some kitchenware and ceramics for your home. You can even get traditional steam dim sum baskets and egg waffle machines for some experimental cooking.

Hong Kong's stature as a global fashion hub is growing fast, and leading the charge are a number of homegrown designers. One of them is Melissa Bui, an up-and-coming name who's making waves at fashion circuits all over the world. Her collections are inspired by the city around her, and here she gives us the low-down on where she shops.

Natural beauty

I personally love flowers, so I try to head over to Flower Market Road, Hong Kong's biggest flower market, to get a dose of weekly inspiration, while picking up new blooms for the atelier, of course. While here, definitely check out Hay Fever Floral & Gifts (No. 62-64) - there's a really cute café inside.

Old is new

I draw a lot of inspiration from vintage clothing. My favourite luxe shop is Once Style HK (8 On Wo Lane), for those who love a good vintage Chanel or Hermès. I'm also inspired by Stylekiki (IG: @stylekiki) for luxe vintage shopping. And while it's not technically 'vintage', I also love Sindart 1958 (Shop 16-17, 1/F, Bowring Centre, 150-164 Woo Sung Street), one of the oldest slipper stores in Hong Kong, known for their beautiful Chinese traditional embroidered slippers and shoes.

Design inspiration

Definitely Sham Shui Po for arts & craft-related items. My favourite shop for beads is Luen Fung Beads Co. (164 Yu Chau Street, Sham Shui Po); this is where I source a lot of the beads I use when designing. There's also Moon Yue Piece Goods (127 Yu Chau Street), a great place to buy end-roll fabrics. It's perfect for those who like to design their own unique piece, and if you dig around enough, you might even find some fancy European fabrics.

The Armoury

Tailors are everywhere in Hong Kong, but finding one that meets your niche desires isn't easy. Enter The Armoury, a store that truly understands what you're after, and is willing to advise on what you need. Their traditional store is similar to what you might find in Milan or Paris, with classic and contemporary looks given equal ground. They also stock casualwear and accessories, from jeans and hats to umbrellas.

- 11 Address: Various locations, including B47, Landmark, 15 Queen's Road Central, Hong Kong Island, 2810 4990 (MTR Central Station, Exit G)
Website: thearmoury.com

G.O.D.

If 'I Heart HK' t-shirts and fridge magnets aren't your sort of souvenir, drop into this chain of locally founded stores. Short for 'Goods of Desire', they put quirky spins on vintage Hong Kong aesthetics: old posters turned into cushion covers, letterbox-print boxer shorts, strings of red lantern fairy lights, and contemporary takes on classic Chinese fashion.

- 12 Address: Various locations, including 48 Hollywood Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2805 1876 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: god.com.hk

Discover more

G.O.D.'s tagline is 'Delay No More', a cheeky English homophonic translation of a popular Cantonese profanity – but we can't tell you what it means!

I.T

I.T is the little Hong Kong brand that could. What started as a small store in the late '80s has blossomed into one of the city's biggest fashion successes, with the publicly listed company managing over 600 I.T shops worldwide. Their Hong Kong-based stores are a mix of in-house brands and hip names from abroad, with a focus mostly on chic casualwear. Major names on their racks include A Bathing Ape, French Connection, Kurt Geiger and izzue.

- 13 Address: Various locations, including 1 Hysan Avenue, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2890 7012 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit F2)

JOYCE

JOYCE is a Hong Kong-born chain where the focus is constantly shifting. Department stores, couture boutiques, beauty outlets, men's grooming salons, even art galleries, JOYCE's many diverse outlets target every interest within the fashion world. Their flagship boutiques, on both Hong Kong Island and Kowloon, are worth extended wanders, stocking both local and international high-end brands.

- 14 Address: Various locations, including 16-18 Queen's Road Central, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2810 1120 (MTR Central Station, Exit G)

Lane Crawford

Thomas Lane and Ninian Crawford were colonial men of refined tastes. Starting out as a makeshift bamboo setup in 1850, the store was met with immediate success, blossoming into the outlets that now bear its name across the city. The focus is mostly on high-end, with couture brands taking up the majority of space, while personal stylists and concierge services are provided to satisfy your every whim.

15 Address: Various locations, including Times Square, 1 Matheson Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2118 2288 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit A)

Lane Crawford

Sam's Tailor

Prince Charles, Nelson Mandela, Angela Merkel, David Bowie, Elton John – the list goes on. They've all been patrons of Sam's, arguably the most popular tailor in Hong Kong. Drop by and experience suit-making of the highest order, all for surprisingly affordable prices, and backed by Sam's 24-hour delivery guarantee. If Sam's doesn't suit, there are hundreds of others within Tsim Sha Tsui: Simpson Sin, William Cheng & Son and Raja Fashions are all favourites.

16 Address: a) Sam's Tailor, K1, Burlington Arcade, 90-94C Nathan Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2367 9423 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit B1); b) Simpson Sin, Block B, 1/F, Lip Seng Mansion, 15-19 Carnarvon Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2723 9228 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit D2); c) William Cheng & Son, 8/F, Han Hing Mansion, 38-40 Hankow Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2739 7888 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit A1); d) Raja Fashions, 34 Cameron Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2366 7624 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit B2)

Websites: samstailor.com; simpsonsintailor.com.hk; www.williamcheng-son.com; raja-fashions.com

Shanghai Tang

Classic Chinese fashion with a chic contemporary edge. That's the charm of Shanghai Tang, a now-international brand that had its beginnings in Hong Kong. Low-cut cheongsams and changshans that look like modern suits, the brand is an innovator in taking China's traditional tailoring and giving it a modern spin. Prices are at the higher end – but if you're after a local look to be used at any occasion, there's no better place.

17 Address: Various locations, including 1 Duddell Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2525 7333 (MTR Central Station, Exit G)
Website: shanghaitang.com

Shanghai Tang

Yue Hwa Chinese Products Emporium

Yue Hwa Chinese Products Emporium

The best of Greater China, all within our little city. Yue Hwa is one of the last old-school department stores in the city. You'll find everything China-related here, from cheap chopsticks and ceramics to expensive embroidery and elegant dresses. There's a few of them around the city, but the biggest is on Nathan Road in Kowloon, a five-storey building with entire floors dedicated to food, fashion and tea.

- 18 Address: Various locations, including 301-309 Nathan Road, Jordan, Kowloon, 3511 2222 (MTR Jordan Station, Exit A)
Website: yuehwa.com

Citygate Outlets

For high-end fashion at low prices, head out to Citygate Outlets near the airport. The outlet mall has discount versions of some of the world's biggest fashion stores – Armani, DVF, Burberry – alongside a host of casual, sporting and accessories brands, including Puma, Coach and Evisu. Another outlet mall to try is Horizon Plaza.

- 19 Address: a) Citygate Outlets, 20 Tat Tung Road, Lantau Island, New Territories, 2109 2933 (MTR Tung Chung Station, Exit C); b) Horizon Plaza, 2 Lee Wing Street, Ap Lei Chau, Hong Kong Island, 2554 9089 (MTR South Horizons Station, Exit C)
Websites: citygateoutlets.com.hk; horizonplazahk.com

Harbour City

Set right next to the Tsim Sha Tsui Pier, Harbour City is a massive shopping experience, comprising three different malls, a series of office blocks and a hotel, all interconnected. Over 450 shops are represented, alongside 50 restaurants and two cinemas. The nautical-themed 'city' is the launching point for a number of major cruise lines, while inside, every type of store is featured, ranging from high-end brands Prada and Louis Vuitton all the way through to Uniqlo and Zara.

- 20 Address: 3-27 Canton Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2118 8666 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit A1)
Website: harbourcity.com.hk

Citygate Outlets

Harbour City

ifc mall

If you arrived via Airport Express into Central, this was your first stop. One ifc is where the trains come in, with ifc mall conveniently located right above the station. Every manner of shop is available, from fast-fashion to high-end, with bars, restaurants and a five-screen, state-of-the-art cinema too. The mall is part of the International Financial Centre, a vast waterfront commercial development topped off with a striking 88-floor skyscraper called Two ifc.

21 Address: 8 Finance Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2295 3308 (MTR Central Station, Exit A)
Website: ifc.com.hk

Langham Place

Among Mong Kok's late-night bazaars and tucked-away mini-malls, this massive ode to consumerism is a sight to see. It's the district's biggest shopping mall by far, with over 200 stores, dozens of restaurants and bars, and a multiscreen cinema. Everything's here, from beauty to fashion, jewellery for her and toys for him. Live performances and art installations are also regularly on offer, while its futuristic design scheme and 83m multi-floor escalator make it worth seeking out.

22 Address: 8 Argyle Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon, 3520 2800 (MTR Mong Kok Station, Exit E1)
Website: langhamplace.com.hk

Times Square

Times Square is Causeway Bay's main mall, over 12 floors stocking fashion to homeware, electronics to lifestyle goods. The basement features a massive supermarket and food court, alongside a Lane Crawford department store. Lower floors are dedicated to shops, ranging from high-end couture to affordable fast-fashion. Upper levels include a range of restaurants and a cinema. And like its New York namesake, it's also where one of the city's biggest New Year's Eve countdowns takes place.

23 Address: 1 Matheson Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2118 8900 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit A)
Website: timesquare.com.hk

Wan Chai Computer Centre

Dig deep into geeky delights at Wan Chai Computer Centre, one of the city's greatest hubs of electronics. Here you'll find computers, laptops, phones, cameras and pretty much every gadget imaginable. Across the harbour, Mong Kok Computer Centre serves a similar function.

24 Address: a) Wan Chai Computer Centre, 130 Hennessy Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2834 7685 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A4); b) Mong Kok Computer Centre, 8-8A Nelson Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon, 2781 0706 (MTR Mong Kok Station, Exit E2)
Website: www.mongkokcc.com

A woman with a backpack and camera stands on a rocky outcrop overlooking the Hong Kong skyline and harbor. She is wearing a red long-sleeved shirt, dark pants, and a grey cap. The background shows a dense urban landscape with numerous skyscrapers, including the Bank of China Tower, and a large body of water with many boats. The sky is filled with soft, white clouds.

Sports & outdoors

A city teeming with open-air adventures. A calendar packed with colourful sporting events. Escape the urban hustle and take a walk on Hong Kong's wild side.

Hong Kong's sports & outdoors are often defined by their array of experiences – by intense athletic spectacles and immersive adventure sports, set against calming nature walks and endless exploration across outlying islands.

Whether you prefer paragliding over rural hills or reclining on a pristine beach, hiking over mountains for spellbinding views or taking in the thrills of a major sporting event, there's something for everyone. Break out from your city-based tourist routine, and explore the open-air pleasures that make Hong Kong such a fascinating fusion of encounters and experiences.

Adventure sports

Get your adrenaline flowing with spectacular adventure sports set as high as the city's skies. Rock climb some of Hong Kong's peaks, including Lion Rock or along the Dragon's Back. Take to the hills, with paragliding on offer at such far-flung destinations as Lantau Island and Shek O.

- 1 Address: a) Rock Climbing, various locations, for info: rockclimbing.com.hk; b) Paragliding, various locations, hkpa.net

Beaches

From quick city escapes to white sand hideaways, Hong Kong's beaches are a contrast in themselves. Famed Repulse Bay is a historic seaside spot surrounded by towering residences – if the crowds get a bit much, walk west to South Bay, a serene little strip with its own bar. Locals spend weekends south in Shek O, a village with two beaches, while white sand campers hike to Tai Long Wan, a gorgeous shore some 16km from Sai Kung town.

- 2 Address: a) Repulse Bay, Beach Road, Hong Kong Island (Bus 6, 6A, 6X, 66 or 260); b) South Bay Beach, South Bay Road, Hong Kong Island (Bus 6, 6A, 6X, 66 or 260); c) Shek O, Hong Kong Island (MTR Shau Kei Wan Station, Exit A3, followed by bus 9); d) Tai Long Wan, Sai Kung, New Territories (MTR Choi Hung Station, Exit C2, followed by minibus 1A. From Sai Kung Town, taxi to Sai Wan Pavilion and follow the trail to the beach)

City parks

If Hong Kong's hectic streets are getting a little much, enjoy welcome respite at one of our many city parks. Victoria Park is the most popular, that alongside tennis, basketball and football courts, plays host to numerous fairs. Across the harbour, Kowloon Park is a former army barracks converted into a huge garden with museums. And out in the New Territories, Tai Po Waterfront Park is the city's largest and has stunning views.

- 3 Address: a) Victoria Park, 1 Hing Fat Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit E); b) Kowloon Park, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit A1); c) Tai Po Waterfront Park, Dai Fat Street, Tai Po, New Territories (MTR Tai Po Market Station, Exit A3, followed by shuttle bus K17)

Cycling

Far from Hong Kong's bustle, cycling paths exist for all levels of enthusiasts. Mui Wo is a lazy day favourite; pick up a bike near the pier and get lost among its sleepy villages. Tolo Harbour, stretching from Tai Wai to Tai Mei Tuk, lets you build up a sweat while taking in gorgeous waterfront views – hire a bike in nearby Sha Tin Park. And if you have your own bike, sturdier legs can journey into our multi-terrain country parks: Tai Lam and Shek O offer flat, shaded terrain, while Lantau South gets a little rockier.

- 4 Address: a) Mui Wo, Lantau Island (Central Ferry Pier 6); b) Tolo Harbour, Tai Wai, New Territories (MTR Tai Wai Station, Exit A); c) Tai Lam Country Park, Tai Lam, New Territories (MTR Tuen Mun Station, Exit F2, followed by minibus 43); d) Shek O, Hong Kong Island (MTR Shau Kei Wan Station, Exit A3, followed by bus 9)

Junk trips

A summer favourite and a classic weekend excursion, 'junks' are medium-sized boats hired for a full day out on Hong Kong's gorgeous waters. Set sail from the Central pier and get one loaded up with food and drink for all your friends. Along with stunning waterfront views, ask your captain to set a course for the city's most remote swimming spots and beaches.

- 5 Address: Depart from Central Ferry Pier 9.
Website: Visit www.junks.hk to compare prices and book a junk.

Watersports

Hong Kong's many isles make it more than ideal for water-based sports. Get your wetsuit on and hit the waves. Grab a board and surf the appropriately named Big Wave Bay in Shek O, or windsurf across the shores of Cheung Chau. Snorkel along the surface and dive the depths of Sharp Island. Whatever your watery pleasure, the city has it.

- 6 Address: a) Big Wave Bay, Shek O, Hong Kong Island (MTR Shau Kei Wan Station, Exit A3, followed by bus 9); b) Cheung Chau (Central Ferry Pier 5); c) Sharp Island (Sai Kung Public Pier)

Discover more

In summer, swells from the south mean Lantau Island gets gnarly waves. Check out Pui O or Cheung Sha beaches. Their white sands make them very appealing to non-surfers too.

Hong Kong Trail

Stretching 50km from The Peak to the very south of the island, the Hong Kong Trail is appropriately named, winding its way all across Hong Kong Island and through its finest highlights. Stage 8 is particularly renowned, an 8km hike recognised as one of the city's best and colloquially known as the Dragon's Back. The name derives from its swirling, rocky paths, which offer stunning coastal views.

7 Address: Dragon's Back (Stage 8), Southern District, Hong Kong Island (MTR Shau Kei Wan Station, Exit A, followed by bus 9)

MacLehose trail

Easily Hong Kong's most demanding, the MacLehose Trail stretches over 100km, through eight country parks totalling 20,000 hectares. It'll take you a solid week to conquer, so instead, focus on picturesque Stage 5 in Lion Rock Country Park. Taking in Lion Rock overlooking Kowloon Peninsula, the Kai Tak Cruise Terminal, numerous World War II tunnels, as well as an array of wild monkeys, it's a 10km trek that's fit for all ages.

8 Address: MacLehose Trail Stage 5, Lion Rock Country Park, Sha Tin, New Territories (MTR Lai Chi Kok Station, Exit A, followed by bus 72)

Shek Pik Country Trail

It's impossible to see all of Lantau Island's sights in a single day, but Shek Pik Country Trail ticks most boxes: start hiking from the Big Buddha and wind your way into Lantau South Country Park. Here you'll join the trail, twisting through ancient villages, abandoned forts, expansive valleys and natural pools. It's an all-day affair, so pack accordingly.

9 Address: Shek Pik Country Trail (MTR Tung Chung Station, Exit B, followed by bus 23)

Want to explore more?

Visit
DiscoverHongKong.com or scan the QR code to find out more about hiking in Hong Kong.

MacLehose Trail

Natural wonders

High Island Reservoir

In summer, stage one of the MacLehose Trail is one of the best places to view the sunset at dusk as well as the starry sky at night. East Dam is part of Hong Kong Global Geopark and it's reachable on foot. The hexagonal rock columns are fascinating for those interested in geology. Under the West Dam is Astropark, featuring astronomical instruments and benches, where you can comfortably lie back and stargaze.

To most, Hong Kong is just another city, a hectic metropolis of commerce and skyscrapers. But to those exploring the fringes, it's a place unlike any other, one where ancient villages, stunning summits and pristine beaches all add up to landscapes that feel otherworldly. Here, Instagram photographer Francis So gives us a tour of his favourite spots.

Sunset Peak

The Sunset Peak is best in autumn, when the whole area is covered with shimmering Chinese silver grass. It takes about one and a half hours to walk to the peak, and I'd recommend going before 3pm, as the scenery is best during sunset. It's beautiful in spring and summer, often with a sea of clouds overhead.

Tai Mo Shan

Tai Mo Shan is the highest mountain in Hong Kong, it's even higher than The Peak, and you're able to see more of Hong Kong from its summit. The top is a restricted area, but even so, the highest point on the road offers a stunning view of the city. If the weather is good enough, you can see Victoria Harbour, the peaks in the Kowloon Peninsula and Lantau Island. It takes about an hour to walk from the Rotary Park Campsite to the highest point of the road to Tai Mo Shan.

Long Ke

Particularly serene, Long Ke is a pristine beach with amazing views. Located about half an hour beyond High Island. This is the ideal spot to go for stargazing.

Kuk Po

Every January and February, the village of Kuk Po gets covered with golden reeds. It's a stunning view. There are also some old houses around, letting you experience a glimpse of bygone Hong Kong while trying out local delicacies, including tofu pudding and Hakka steamed glutinous rice cakes. Take a minibus from Fanling to Luk Keng, and another hour's walk will take you to Kuk Po.

Cheung Chau

One of the most inhabited of Hong Kong's many outlying islands, Cheung Chau's serene seaside town vibe and abundance of alfresco seafood spots make it the ideal escape from the thronging masses. Cars are banned, so hire a bike and cycle your way to numerous temples and rocky beaches. Take a break alongside the island's locals sitting at one of the many independent cafés and bars, before enjoying from-the-deep delights at a seafood restaurant.

10 Address: Cheung Chau
(Central Ferry Pier 5)

Cheung Chau

Lamma Island

For a Hong Kong contrast unlike any other, wade your way through Central's bustle, hop on a half-hour ferry and set course for Lamma Island: a car-free haven where independent waterfront restaurants dish out fresh seafood, mom-and-pop businesses thrive and everyone just seems a little more relaxed. Hike along the appropriately named Family Trail, chill on the beach facing its gargantuan power station, or just soak in the vibe at one of the many village cafés.

11 Address: Lamma Island
(Central Ferry Pier 4)

Lamma Island

Discover more

Water buffalo were first brought to Hong Kong in the mid-1900s, and are now essential to the biodiversity of Lantau Island. Although measures are being taken to save them, construction and illegal dumping are seeing their numbers dwindle.

Lantau Island

Lantau Island

From heritage hotels to beachside surf bars, water buffaloes to Mickey Mouse, Lantau Island has it all. It's a place where age-old fishing villages and ancient monasteries sit comfortably next to cable-car towns and luxury residential bays. Grab the ferry to sleepy Mui Wo or cab it across Tsing Yi bridge, before making your choice. Hike through country park marshes? Family trips to Disneyland? Or just a leisurely weekend with locals on the white sands of Pui O beach.

12 Address: Lantau Island
(Central Ferry Pier 6)

Hong Kong Wetland Park

Nature lovers will get a kick out of Hong Kong Wetland Park, a fascinating ecotourism park that explores Hong Kong's varied flora and fauna. Its 60-hectare reserve showcases some of the city's wonderful wildlife, from birds and butterflies to fish and amphibians, while a number of walks and gardens let you get up close. Interactive educational experiences are also offered, with galleries, a theatre, a cinema and various play areas, making the faraway park fit for the whole family.

13 Address: Wetland Park Road, Tin Shui Wai, New Territories, 3152 2666
(MTR Tin Shui Wai Station, then Light Rail 705 or 706)

Website: wetlandpark.gov.hk

Mai Po Nature Reserve

You wouldn't think it from our towering buildings and crowded city, but Hong Kong is home to some of the world's most unique bird varieties. They're best seen out at the Mai Po Nature Reserve, a 380-hectare site with up to 90,000 migratory birds making the journey here every year. Catch everything from black-faced spoonbills to Saunder's gulls, alongside otters, butterflies, crabs and reptiles. Conservation is high on the agenda, so access is often limited, but visitors can join group tours at weekends into the reserve.

14 Address: Mai Po, Yuen Long, New Territories, 2526 1011 (MTR Sheung Shui Station, Exit C, then bus 76K)

Website: wwf.org.hk

Unesco Global Geopark

Spread out over 5,000 hectares of the city's northeast coastline, the geopark is a world-class site that encompasses islands, caves, cliffs, rocks, channels and more, all to showcase the unique local land formations. See rocks dating from the days of the dinosaurs, hike along trails to take in arresting views, go island hopping or take a tour of an ecological village. The best place to start your explorations is at the Volcano Discovery Centre.

15 Address: Sai Kung Waterfront Park, Wai Man Road, Sai Kung, New Territories, 2394 1538 (From MTR Diamond Hill Station, Exit C2, then bus 92)

Website: volcanodiscoverycentre.hk

Dragon Boat races

Dragon Boat races

Dragon boat races, a Hong Kong spectacle, where brawny rowers battle it out in dragon-shaped vessels while the crowds cheer on from the side. Events take place all over the city, but the two biggest are the championships in Stanley at end of May, and the carnival over three days in June on the harbourfront. Catch them both if you can.

- 16 Address: a) Dragon Boat Championships, Stanley Main Beach, Stanley, Hong Kong Island (Bus 6, 6A, 6X, 66 or 260); b) Dragon Boat Carnival, Central harbourfront, Hong Kong Island (MTR Central Station, Exit A)

Hong Kong Marathon

Strap a number to your chest and hit the streets, as long-distance runners take part in the city's biggest marathon. The Hong Kong Marathon has been on-the-run since 1997, the annual event seeing up to 60,000 people compete at the beginning of every year. While the full marathon distance covers over 40km, there are also half-marathon and 10km races too.

- 17 Address: Victoria Park, 1 Hing Fat Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit E)
Website: hkmarathon.com

Hong Kong Open

Get in the swing of things at the Hong Kong Open, the city's oldest professional sporting event and a tournament where the world's best golfers gather. Set in Sheung Shui as the weather starts to cool in December, it regularly awards a US$2 million prize, with previous winners including Rory McIlroy and Justin Rose. Admission is free on the first two days, and ticketed for the main event over the weekend.

- 18 Address: Hong Kong Golf Club, 1 Fan Kam Road, Sheung Shui, New Territories (MTR Sheung Shui Station, Exit C, followed by taxi)
Website: hkga.com/eng/hongkongopen

Hong Kong Sevens

Started in the 1970s as a local club affair, the Sevens has blossomed into Hong Kong's biggest sporting showcase. Tickets are nigh-impossible to procure, but those that gain entrance are treated to a true spectacle. The world's finest athletes battle in rapid-fire games for three days, while local legions watch on, most infamously from the South Stand. If you can't gain entrance, neighbouring Sevens Village makes an entertaining substitute.

19 Address: Hong Kong Stadium, 55 Eastern Hospital Road, So Kon Po, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit F)
Website: hksevens.com

Tennis Open

With names like Venus Williams, Jelena Jankovic and Johanna Konta regularly gracing our hard courts, the Hong Kong Tennis Open is quickly becoming a major sporting spectacle. Set every October in Victoria Park's outdoor stadium, catch the world's best women's players for a weekend of singles and doubles matches. And if you're lucky enough to be here during the first few days, the qualifying stages are free entry on a first-come basis.

20 Address: Victoria Park Tennis Stadium, 1 Hing Fat Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit E)
Website: hktennisopen.hk

Living culture

Chinese traditions and colonial pastimes. Ancient rituals and city-wide festivals. Culture can be found everywhere in Hong Kong.

For a modern city forever pushing forward at breakneck speeds, the rich contrast of living culture in Hong Kong is extraordinary. A fascinating blend of East and West, Chinese and colonial, the customs, rituals, traditions and practices are a wonderful mishmash.

Journey out to the city's fringes and catch ancient Chinese processions, before watching thoroughbreds race along a colonial-era track. Sip classic English afternoon tea at a venerated hotel, followed by a palm reading at a street-stall fortune teller. Join an early morning tai chi class, and then stroll down to the water to watch a British cannon fired off. Among the endless development, Hong Kong's living culture thrives.

Cheung Chau Bun Festival

The mad clamber to the top, the grabbing of buns, the cheer of the crowd as the winners make their descent. This festival is a rare spectacle, not only of athleticism during its bun tower climbing competition, but of camaraderie and good cheer. Falling in April or May each year, its history is based on offerings to fend off an ancient plague. The event also includes ceremonies, parades and lion dances. Be warned though, it can get very busy.

1 Address: Cheung Chau (Central Ferry Pier 5)

Chinese New Year

Hong Kong's biggest festival, and one that sweeps over the entire city. Red lanterns are hung all across town, lion dances are performed on the streets, and crowds head down to their local temple to pray for good fortune. Chinese New Year, observed in January or February according to the Chinese lunar calendar, is a celebration that Hong Kong adores. Take a wander through the many makeshift markets selling all manner of festive items, stop in to see floats in the Night Parade, and then catch the stunning firework display that lights up Victoria Harbour.

Dragon Boat Water Parade of Tai O

Unlike the boisterous races that take place in the summer, the Dragon Boat Water Parade of Tai O is a sedate, religious procession, one that's organised annually in May or June to appease the many water ghosts of ancient stilt village, Tai O. It's a long-established ritual, where the village's elders parade deity statues in their sacred boats, while devotees on the sides fill the waters with paper offerings. Come early in the morning for the best views.

2 Address: Tai O, Lantau Island (MTR Tung Chung Station, Exit B, then bus 11)

Mid-Autumn Festival

Mid-Autumn was once celebrated to welcome the harvest and is now an enduring custom that takes over the city. Mooncakes are sold everywhere, fruit and wine offerings are made to the gods, and lanterns are lit to emulate the full moon in September or October. In Victoria Park, kids carry mini-lanterns, while games and performances take place. Over in Tai Hang, the Fire Dragon Dance is a spectacle where an incensed-studded beast dances through the streets.

3 Address: a) Victoria Park, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay, Exit E); b) Tai Hang, Hong Kong Island (MTR Tin Hau Station, Exit B)

Afternoon tea

Afternoon tea is a long-esteemed colonial tradition, an upper-crust affair where layered trays filled with sandwiches, scones and other treats are paired with a pot of your favourite brew. It's still served at numerous hotels and restaurants around the city, but your best bet is at a place of history. The Peninsula is the most iconic, but other favourites include Mandarin Oriental Hotel and Repulse Bay's The Verandah.

- 4 Address: a) The Lobby, The Peninsula, Salisbury Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2696 6772 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit E); b) Clipper Lounge, Mandarin Oriental Hotel, 5 Connaught Road Central, Hong Kong Island, 2825 4007 (MTR Central Station, Exit F); c) The Verandah, 109 Repulse Bay Road, Repulse Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2292 2822 (bus 6, 6A, 6X, 66 or 260)
Websites: hongkong.peninsula.com; mandarinoriental.com; therepulsebay.com

Horse racing

A colonial-era tradition and one that's been going strong since the 1800s, horse racing is a must, be it on a Wednesday in Happy Valley or on a weekend in Sha Tin. Take in the sight of racecourses surrounded by residences, smells of grassy fields and thoroughbreds, and the sound of fast-paced hooves racing along muddy tracks. Bets start at HK$10, drinks are served alfresco, and a Tourist Badge gets you into a Member's Enclosure.

- 5 Address: a) Happy Valley Racecourse, Happy Valley, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit A); b) Sha Tin Racecourse, Sha Tin, New Territories (MTR Racecourse Station)
Website: entertainment.hkjc.com

Noon Day Gun

A long-standing ritual, the Noon Day Gun has a funny old folklore history, and what apparently started as a bit of a mistake has since become a Hong Kong tradition. The salute was once reserved for visiting colonial officers, but local company Jardine's often used it for its own civilian officials. As punishment, they were ordered to fire off a shot every day in perpetuity. And as its name suggests, come by just before midday to see it in action.

- 6 Address: Gloucester Road, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit D1)

24 hours in the market

Paul Chan takes his love of Hong Kong right to the streets. As the founder of Walk in Hong Kong, a local company offering off-the-beaten-path explorations of the city's various sides, his tours bring in both tourists and locals alike. Here, he gives us a 24-hour breakdown of one of his favourite city spots, the Yau Ma Tei Fruit Market.

6pm to midnight

I'm often asked by tourists where they can buy the best quality fruit in Hong Kong. I always say Yau Ma Tei Fruit Market. It's a wholesale market that turns retail during the day. The wholesale part starts around sunset, with the market opening up around 8pm. Workers start delivering boxes of fresh fruit on hand-pushed and electric carts, and by midnight, things get really busy.

Midnight to 6am

As morning starts to creep in, the bidding starts. Shopkeepers and restaurant owners come from far and wide to source the best quality fruit. The person offering the highest price gets the best fruit, but bidders try not to disclose how much they're offering, except to the wholesaler. Sometimes, you can still see stall owners rounding up their numbers with an abacus instead of an electronic calculator.

6am to 12pm

By early morning, all transactions are done. It only really comes to life again when regular work hours start, as the wholesale market becomes a retail market. The retail side is pretty recent and was only introduced a few years ago. The shops only sell the highest quality fruit, including Japanese Kyoho Grapes, Japanese strawberries and yellow pitaya. But the shopkeepers are very friendly and are happy to share their knowledge.

12pm to 6pm

During the afternoon, the market is also a great place to see remnants of old Hong Kong. Back in the '50s, Yau Ma Tei Fruit Market was a hotbed of crime, but these days, everyone walks freely along its paths. It's a place almost frozen in time: stone stalls covered with terrazzo, banyan trees growing between houses. Throw yourself into the market and enjoy getting lost among its little lanes.

Chinese tea & medicine

For thousands of years, ancient Chinese remedies were known to alleviate and treat numerous ailments. To this day, herbal concoctions are to be found all over Hong Kong, and a peek inside the medicine stores along Ko Shing Street offers a glimpse into the ways the tradition is kept alive. And for something a little more appetising, look into Chinese tea and its soothing properties, particularly at Flagstaff House.

- 7 Address: a) Ko Shing Street, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2); b) Flagstaff House, Hong Kong Park, 10 Cotton Tree Drive, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Admiralty Station, Exit C1)

Feng Shui & palm reading

Hong Kong's faith in forces are on display across town. Feng shui is the ancient practice of finding balance with nature. To see it in action one only needs to look up – our skyscrapers are harmoniously set, some with 'gateways' to allow the dragon to pass. Fortune tellers are popular in the city, and near Temple Street a row of them await to read your future in English or Chinese. Find out more about feng shui on a special tour: skybird.com.hk.

- 8 Address: Temple Street, Yau Ma Tei, Kowloon (MTR Yau Ma Tei Station, Exit C)

Lam Tsuen Wishing Trees

Lam Tsuen has been inhabited for almost 800 years, dating back to the Song Dynasty, and the wishing trees once saw villagers tossing wish-filled paper onto its branches. The higher up they reached, the more likely, it was believed, their wishes would come true. Today, preservation means your wishes are tied to nearby railings, but it's still an impressive sight, especially around festival time, when crowds from all across the city gather to have their wishes fulfilled.

- 9 Address: Lam Tsuen, Tai Po, New Territories (MTR Tai Po Market Station, then bus 64K or 64P)

Petty person beating

At a busy intersection between Wan Chai and Causeway Bay a woman sits bashing a sheet of paper with an old shoe, chanting Cantonese curses while people look on. The paper, cut into the shape of a tiger, had been handed to her with a petty person's name written upon on it. This ancient practice is believed to be able to dispel a troublesome individual in your life. Watch the regular stream of believers from afar. Or throw down your own paper tiger to get rid of a person making your life difficult.

- 10 Address: Junction of Hennessy Road and Canal Road, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit A)

Tai chi

Slow, graceful movements to find balance between the body's natural yin and yang – that's tai chi in a nutshell, an ancient ritual practised by old and young alike all throughout the city. You might see people performing break of dawn around town – but the best place to catch a glimpse of it is in the city's parks, particularly Victoria Park, where crowds meet to practise every day. Don't be shy, many are happy to teach newcomers.

11 Address: Victoria Park, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay, Exit E)

Temple worship

On any given day of the week, at nearly any hour, you'll find a believer making an offering to the gods at one of our city's many temples. They're impressive places of worship: smoky, atmospheric and filled with ancient relics of Hong Kong's long history. Drop in and have a peek around, they're open to all. Or, if you're feeling generous, make a small donation and pay your respects by lighting incense. Some of the best temples can be found listed in the Attractions section of this guide.

高速鐵路
High Speed Rail

MTR
caring for life's journeys

Guangzhou Chaoshan Xiamen Zhaoqing Nanning

GO FASTER! GO FURTHER!

Experience multi-destination travel with High Speed Rail from Hong Kong to Mainland China

High Speed Rail (Hong Kong Section) connects with major cities and popular destinations in Mainland China, satisfying your many travel wishes.

Book Ticket Now
www.mtr.com.hk/highspeed

Arts & entertainment

Centres of culture where local and international companies perform. Festivals dedicated to everything from fine art to modern music. Let Hong Kong's many artistic showcases entertain you.

Culture is in a class of its own in Hong Kong, a city where international theatre companies share the stage with traditional Chinese opera performers. Here, you'll find a museum dedicated to comic books, arts festivals spread out over entire months, and a rich cinematic heritage that's prevalent throughout the city.

Take a stroll down a street lined with contemporary galleries, or walk through the halls of Asia's biggest art fair. Share a drink with local artists at a creative hub, or head down to the harbourfront to catch international acts illuminated by the skyline. The artistic possibilities are entertainingly endless.

Fringe Club

Fringe Club has long been a popular hangout for the city's artistic types, with studio spaces and exhibition halls set alongside an affordable restaurant and a couple of chilled-out bars. It's a great place to escape Central's masses, either for a show or a drink. Next door is The Foreign Correspondents' Club, a members-only journalist haunt – if a friend can get you in, it's worth a visit for the colonial-inspired setting and British comfort food.

- ① Address: Fringe Club, 2 Lower Albert Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2521 7251; The Foreign Correspondents' Club, 2 Lower Albert Road, Central, 2521 1511 (MTR Central Station, Exit D1)
Websites: hkfringeclub.com; fcchk.org

Hong Kong Arts Centre

First opened in 1977, the Hong Kong Arts Centre stands as one of the city's major culture hubs, a series of galleries and theatre spaces spread across multiple floors. Catch retro-screenings of classic films in its cinemas, see post-modern performances on its stages, and meet some of the city's creative folks around its many halls. Down the road, The Hong Kong Academy for Performing Arts is a major theatre venue, hosting local and international companies.

Fringe Club

Hong Kong Arts Centre

- ② Address: a) Hong Kong Arts Centre, 2 Harbour Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2582 0200; b) The Hong Kong Academy for Performing Arts, 1 Gloucester Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2584 8500 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit C)
Websites: hkac.org.hk; hkapa.edu

Hong Kong Cultural Centre

Hong Kong Cultural Centre

Set right on Kowloon's waterfront, this is the city's leading entertainment venue, an immense space with major theatres, halls and gallery spaces dedicated to the various arts. The Cultural Centre is also home to the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra, Hong Kong Chinese Orchestra and Hong Kong Ballet.

- ③ Address: 10 Salisbury Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2734 2009 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit E)
Website: icsd.gov.hk/hkcc

Hong Kong Film Archive

Hong Kong's rich cinematic history is presented in galleries, screening rooms and a museum. Catch a classic or long-forgotten movie, and then dive straight into its history at the Resource Centre. For more on Hong Kong film, visit art-house cinema Broadway Cinematheque, or catch the Hong Kong International Film Festival.

- ④ Address: a) Hong Kong Film Archive, 50 Lei King Road, Aldrich Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2739 2139 (MTR Sai Wan Ho Station, Exit A); b) Broadway Cinematheque, 3 Public Square Street, Yau Ma Tei, Kowloon, 2388 0002
Websites: www.filmarchive.gov.hk; cinema.com.hk; hkiff.org.hk

Hong Kong Museum of Art

After three years of extensive renovation, the Hong Kong Museum of Art reopened in November 2019 to reveal a much bigger, brighter and more vibrant building. There's now 40 per cent more exhibition space than before, including an extended roof floor and an impressive nine-metre-high gallery in the new annexe block. Core collections include Chinese painting and calligraphy, Chinese antiquities, China trade art, and modern and Hong Kong art. Set right on Tsim Sha Tsui waterfront, the distinctive external skin of the museum is inspired by the water ripples of Victoria Harbour.

5 Address: 10 Salisbury Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2721 0116 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station Exit E)
Website: icsd.gov.hk

Liang Yi Museum

Hong Kong's largest private museum, Liang Yi is an imposing space on Hollywood Road that features antique furniture from Hong Kong and Mainland China. Founded by corporate tycoon Peter Fung, visits are open to the public, but by appointment only and include a guided tour. Also on the private museum itinerary are Imperial Museum, which preserves various relics, and Sun Museum for Chinese art.

Hong Kong Museum of Art

Liang Yi Museum

6 Address: a) Liang Yi Museum, 181-199 Hollywood Road, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island, 2806 8280 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2); b) Imperial Museum, St. John's Building, 33 Garden Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2810 9595 (MTR Central Station, Exit J2); c) Sun Museum, 4/F, 165 Hoi Bun Road, Kwun Tong, Kowloon, 2690 6790 (MTR Kwun Tong Station, Exit B3)
Websites: liangyimuseum.com; www.imperial-museum.org; sunmuseum.org.hk

Xiqu Centre

Sunbeam Theatre

Sunbeam Theatre stands as a major point of pride in North Point, an age-old Cantonese opera house that still presents performances of Hong Kong's home-grown theatre. First opened back in 1972, the venue has seen few renovations in the years since, and still retains a strong vintage aesthetic. Regular performances take place on afternoons and evenings.

7 Address: 413-423 King's Road, North Point, Hong Kong Island, 2563 2959 (MTR North Point Station, Exit B1)
Website: sunbeamtheatre.com

Xiqu Centre

This striking new arts venue at West Kowloon Cultural District opened in January 2019. It provides a world-class platform for Cantonese opera and other forms of Chinese traditional theatre (xiqu). Two main stages await audiences: the 1,073-seat Grand Theatre and the more intimate Tea House Theatre, where traditional tea and dim sum are served during performances.

8 Address: 88 Austin Road West, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2200 0022 (MTR Austin Station, Exit F)
Website: westkowloon.hk/xiqucentre

Art Basel

Asia's biggest art fair, Art Basel has stretched far beyond its convention centre base, expanding into an assortment of parallel events all across town. The main event is an open-to-the-public weeklong affair at the convention centre in March, with hundreds of international galleries flying in to display their most important works. Walk its vast halls and meet many of the artists in person, before hitting the town for events and parties that celebrate Hong Kong's cultural cornerstone.

9 Address: Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre, 1 Expo Drive, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A5)
Website: artbasel.com

Art Basel

Hong Kong Arts Festival

Art Central

Coinciding with Art Basel is satellite fair Art Central which has a strong focus on the Asia-Pacific region and serves as a platform for the next generation of contemporary artists. A variety of works, including ink, painting, photography, video and sculpture go on display, with pieces generally priced at more affordable rates than at Art Basel.

10 Address: Central HarbourFront
Website: artcentralhongkong.com

Clockenflap

Hong Kong's biggest outdoor music festival, Clockenflap is an electrifying weekend of great tunes and captivating multimedia. Featuring local, regional and international acts, alongside film and art installations, it's often set outdoors in November, just as the weather cools. Attracting crowds of up to 50,000 people, including entire families, the festival features a dedicated kids' zone.

11 Address: Central HarbourFront
Website: clockenflap.com

Clockenflap

Hong Kong Arts Festival

An annual event for over 45 years, the Arts Festival is unrivalled on Hong Kong's cultural calendar, with dozens of international acts descending into many spaces. Catch classical shows, post-modern performances, premier music events and innumerable creative acts over its month-long showcase. Previous years have seen such names as Kevin Spacey, Philip Glass, Bobby McFerrin and the Royal Shakespeare Company.

12 Website: hk.artsfestival.org

Le French May Arts Festival

Did you know that Hong Kong now has one of the largest French communities in Asia? This growing French connection partly explains the remarkable success of Le French May, an annual arts and cultural extravaganza that began back in 1993. Now one of the largest French arts festivals in Asia, it's a chance to savour over 150 local and international performances that include the visual arts, opera, classical and contemporary music, dance, new circus, theatre and cinema as well as the culinary arts. The themed event is held in May and June.

13 Website: frenchmay.com

The city through cinema

Chungking Express (1994)

The Central escalator was built when we started the movie, and nearly everything was filmed within one kilometre of it. It's a metaphor for aspiration and hope, it divided the expat area from the local community. If you wander around, it's a microcosm of the city. Graham Street Market, Chinese medicine stores, and the escalator, from finance to where people dream of living, out of money and into hope. That's what defined Chungking Express.

Fallen Angels (1995)

We filmed more of Chungking Mansions in Fallen Angels than we did Chungking Express, and again, the building acted as a metaphor for the film. It's wondrous, it has no answer, they don't even know what's going on there. It's a melange of different cultures, it's a collage of people who aren't very rich trying to work out how to live in Hong Kong. There's no city in the world where you can see such a variety of visceral, essential and personal experiences.

In the Mood for Love (2000)

With In the Mood for Love, we tried to celebrate Hong Kong's simple values. The 1960s for Hong Kong people was transitional. It's nostalgia, for the values that we now may think we may lose. Most people from that time were immigrants, and it was a society looking for itself, which is what we're doing again now. Art's function is to remind you of how beautiful your life could be, and how beautiful it is.

Christopher Doyle is one of our greatest film treasures. The cinematographer behind Wong Kar-wai's major works, his visual style all but defined Hong Kong's look. Here, he talks about reliving his movies in modern Hong Kong.

Infernal Affairs (2002)

The most famous shot is on the rooftop, and I'm afraid of heights. And I couldn't do anything but celebrate this astonishing skyline we've created.

That was the most important part of the film: this steel-and-glass world actually has beauty. The building is a mirror; it's a metaphor for the questions of how we live in Hong Kong.

Hong Kong Trilogy (2016)

'Who are we and why are we here?' - that's what we were addressing with Hong Kong Trilogy. It was about changes since the handover, and hopefully that initiated some kind of response. But it's not just about Instagram, it's about what this city suggests to you. It comes down to movie-making to make your point. We need to reach out, and hopefully films do it better than politics. We have to have a voice.

7 Mallory Street

This attractive cluster of 10 pre-war Grade 2 historic buildings has been preserved to retain many of the original architectural features such as balconies, a tiled pitched roof, French doors and a wooden staircase. 7 Mallory Street now serves as an atmospheric venue for various events and activities such as art and cultural exhibitions, community workshops, performances and film screenings. The site is open for the public to visit free of charge, while certain events might charge a fee. Formerly Comix Home Base, the venue was renamed in August 2018.

14 Address: 7 Mallory Street, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2907 3733 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A3)

7 Mallory Street

Hollywood Road

Hollywood Road is one of Hong Kong's main creative arteries, an essential thoroughfare running right through the middle of Central and Sheung Wan. With an equal share of contemporary galleries and classic antique stores lining its sidewalks and side streets, alongside a unique museum, it's ideal for a cultured stroll on a lazy afternoon. Art galleries worth dropping in on include Connoisseur and Carré d'Artistes.

15 Address: a) Sundaram Tagore Gallery, 4/F, 57-59 Hollywood Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2581 9678; b) Connoisseur Art Gallery, 1 Hollywood Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2868 5358; c) Carré d'Artistes Gallery, 53-55 Hollywood Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2630 0080 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2)
Websites: sundaramtagore.com; connoisseur-art.com; carredartistes.com

Hollywood Road

Jockey Club Creative Arts Centre

Jockey Club Creative Arts Centre

From factory building to artistic hub, the JCCAC gives over 100 artists and organisations affordable space to explore creative possibilities. Visitors are allowed to peek into the many studios, while regular events on its open rooftop and in the airy courtyard offer an alternate look at contemporary culture. Annual events include an arts festival, arts and crafts fair, cultural tours and numerous creative workshops.

16 Address: 30 Pak Tin Street, Shek Kip Mei, Kowloon (MTR Shek Kip Mei Station, Exit C)
Website: jccac.org.hk

K11 Musea

K11 & K11 Musea

The city's (and possibly, the world's) first ever art mall, K11 allows you to simultaneously balance the dual thrills of shopping and culture. It's far from some consumerist gimmick though, and K11's many exhibitions are strikingly impressive, an even mix of local and international artists displaying works among the mall's gallery spaces. Or explore an equally ambitious blend of retail, dining and art at the futuristic K11 Musea on Victoria Dockside.

- 17 Address: a) K11, 18 Hanoi Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 3118 8070 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit N4); b) K11 Musea, Victoria Dockside, 18 Salisbury Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 3892 3890 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit J)
Websites: hk.k11.com; k11musea.com

The Mills

This former textile factory wears its industrial heritage with pride. Opened in 2018 following a huge revitalisation project, the derelict 1960s buildings were given a new lease of life as a destination for innovation, culture, creativity and community. It's now an inspiring hub that's home to startups, artisan dining experiences and hands-on learning spaces, including the fascinating Centre for Heritage, Arts and Textile (CHAT).

- 18 Address: 45 Pak Tin Par Street, Tsuen Wan, New Territories, 3979 2300 (MTR Tsuen Wan Station, Exit A3)
Website: themills.com.hk

Para Site

Para Site

Hong Kong's first non-profit gallery, and still a major name in the contemporary art world, Para Site is an important hub for local artists, a place where the city's most avant-garde gather to display unique works. With regular exhibitions exploring the various sides of Hong Kong, alongside conferences and programmes that enlighten and engage, it's the ideal launch pad to explore other independent spaces, including Mur Nomade.

- 19 Address: a) Para Site, 22/F, 677 King's Road, Quarry Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2517 4620 (MTR Quarry Bay, Exit C); b) Mur Nomade, 1606, 7 Tin Wan Praya Road, Aberdeen, Hong Kong Island, 2580 5923 (MTR South Horizons, Exit C)
Website: para-site.org.hk

Pedder Building

The last surviving pre-World War II building on Pedder Street, one of Central's main thoroughfares, this shophouse-like structure is a contrast to the many skyscrapers that surround it, and hosts some of the city's most innovative art galleries. Eminent international gallery Gagosian has a branch here, while a number of local spaces give prime placement to home-grown and regional artists. Galleries worth visiting include Pearl Lam, Hanart TZ, and Lehman Maupin.

- 20 Address: a) Gagosian Gallery, 7/F, 12 Pedder Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2151 0555; b) Pearl Lam Galleries, 601-605, 12 Pedder Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2522 1428; c) Hanart TZ Gallery, 401, 12 Pedder Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2526 9019; d) Lehman Maupin, 407, 12 Pedder Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2530 0025 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Websites: gagosian.com; pearllam.com; hanart.com; lehmannmaupin.com

Discover more

Heritage conservation is high on the city's agenda, and historic buildings work on a graded system. Pedder Building is Grade II, which gives it 'special merit'.

PMQ

A sleek artistic space on the border of Central, PMQ is the former police married quarters turned Hong Kong creative hub. Independent restaurants and shops dominate the lower levels, while the upper floors are made up of various artistic studios, with the public offered a rare glimpse inside their inventive lives. Snake your way through its many floors, before dropping in for a drink and a bite at the classy French restaurant Louise where the ground floor all-day dining Parlour lounge requires no reservation.

21 Address: a) PMQ, 35 Aberdeen Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2870 2335; b) Louise, G/F, PMQ, 35 Aberdeen Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2866 0300 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit E2)
Websites: pmq.org.hk; louise.hk

Tai Kwun

Tai Kwun

South Island Cultural District

South Island Cultural District was founded in 2013, with an aim to offer Hong Kong an alternative art-centric area to explore. Over 20 contemporary galleries, studios and art spaces are lined up along Wong Chuk Hang and Aberdeen, each presenting ever-changing exhibitions. Annual open days, including Art Day, Art Night and Art Brunch, allow culture novices to explore the many spaces while engaging with the community.

22 Address: Wong Chuk Hang Road, Wong Chuk Hang, Hong Kong Island (MTR Wong Chuk Hang Station, Exit A)
Website: sicd.com.hk

Opened in 2018, Hong Kong's largest-ever restoration project has transformed 16 historic buildings of the former Central Police Station compound into a lively new heritage, arts and lifestyle hub. Two new buildings and various outdoor spaces also host exhibitions, events and performances. You can make a whole day of it here: enjoy a coffee in the former jail; dine in the old armoury; shop for gifts in the barracks; or catch some theatre in what was once the prison yard.

23 Address: 10 Hollywood Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 3559 2600 (MTR Central Station, Exit D1)
Website: taikwun.hk/en

Nightlife

Neon-lit streets and hidden-away bars. Pumping clubs and break-of-dawn crowds. Hong Kong is a city that comes alive at night.

By day, Hong Kong deftly balances business and pleasure, where suited executives jostle about town while eager tourists take in our many sights. But as the lights go down and night creeps in, everyone comes together. It's almost a different city, one of bustling bar districts, upstairs clubs, chilled-out lounges and retro-styled salons.

Take to the streets beer-in-hand and rub shoulders with locals and expats alike. Settle into a quiet cocktail at a colonial classic, or strap on your weekend best to hit our many dancefloors. Knock on inconspicuous doors to uncover hidden bars, and then ascend skyscrapers for a vertical booze crawl. Chilled pub-goer or partying clubber, our neon-lit streets really do have something for everyone.

Knutsford Terrace

An across-the-harbour counter to Central's Lan Kwai Fong, Knutsford Terrace in Tsim Sha Tsui is a decidedly more sedate affair, with a long line of bustling restaurants that transform into late-night watering holes. The area features an even mix of ground-level alfresco spots and upstairs bars, as well as a small smattering of after-hours clubs. Popular choices include The China Bar for live music, and Assembly for snacks and cocktails.

- ① Address: a) The China Bar, 10-11 Knutsford Terrace, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2367 1011; b) Assembly, 6 Knutsford Terrace, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2723 6588 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit B1)
Websites: thechinabar.com.hk; assembly.knutsfordbyprivegroup.hk

Lan Kwai Fong & SoHo

The beating heart of Hong Kong's nightlife scene, Lan Kwai Fong and SoHo are the city's most popular boozing districts, two neighbouring areas in Central filled with bars, pubs, clubs and all manner of watering holes. LKF is the busier of the two, with rowdy crowds spilling out of its blaring bars and onto the streets on any given weekend. SoHo, meanwhile, is a more relaxed affair, contrasted by quiet lounges and tucked-away boozers. One of our favourites is Stazione Novella.

- ② Address: Stazione Novella, 52-56 Staunton Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2559 0559 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: stazionenovella.com

Tung Choi Street

A few streets north of Mong Kok's Ladies' Market, Tung Choi Street is a local hangout, a stretch of Chinese-style pubs where bottled beers are served in buckets, dartboards are everywhere, and dice games are constantly being played. But don't feel overwhelmed: the bars are more than welcoming to tourists, and it's a great way to rub shoulders with friendly local faces while enjoying some of the best-priced drinks in town. Best bets include Quarter Bar, Future Lounge and the cheekily named Piss Bar II.

- ③ Address: a) Quarter Bar, 248-250 Tung Choi Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon, 2381 8668; b) Future Lounge, 240 Tung Choi Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon, 2381 5111; c) Piss Bar II, 214 Tung Choi Street, Mong Kok, Kowloon (MTR Prince Edward Station, Exit B1)

Wan Chai Bar District

Once famed for its Suzie Wong-style gentlemen's venues, Wan Chai has cleaned up its act, and now features a wide variety of colonial-style pubs, sports bars and live music clubs. Watch football and rugby on huge projector screens, down a couple pints of real British ale, catch cover bands playing your favourite hair-metal tunes, and then dance the night away on a booze-soaked bar top. Long-standing favourites include Scottish pub The Canny Man and music venue The Wanch.

- ④ Address: a) The Canny Man, B/F, Wharney Guangdong Hotel, 57-73 Lockhart Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2861 1935; b) The Wanch, 54 Jaffe Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2861 1621 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A1)
Websites: thecannyman.com; thewanch.hk

Captain's Bar

The Mandarin Oriental is a Hong Kong institution, a city landmark, and while the hotel has seen a number of changes over the decades, one thing has stayed the same: the Captain's Bar, a 50-plus-year-old pub that's become a regular post-work watering hole for Central's suited types. Beers are famously served in silver tankards, including a craft beer made exclusively for the bar, and cocktails are perfectly mixed by bow-tied bartenders. On weekends, drop in to catch a crooning live jazz lounge act.

5 Address: G/F, Mandarin Oriental Hotel, 5 Connaught Road Central, Hong Kong Island, 2825 4006 (MTR Central Station, Exit F)
Website: mandarinoriental.com

The Globe

The Globe is an expat favourite that still retains a strong colonial charm. Stodgy dishes, from homemade pies to towering burgers, are served on stark wooden tables, while comfy booths and a full-square bar allow you to nurse your pint in peace. The Globe is also one of the few places to fully embrace Hong Kong's craft beer scene, with ever-revolving local brews on draft, regular tasting events and even a proper hand-pumped cask tap.

6 Address: 45-53A, Garley Building, Graham Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2543 1941 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: theglobe.com.hk

Ned Kelly's Last Stand

It's debatable whether Ned Kelly's is really 'Hong Kong's oldest bar', but there's no doubting the long-standing Australian pub has been around for a good long while, first opening its doors in the early '70s and seeing a steady stream of regular clientele ever since. Forever packed, its vintage aesthetic hosts a raucous live jazz band seven nights a week, alongside ice-cold beers served tableside at a price cheaper than most.

7 Address: 11A Ashley Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2376 0562 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui East Station, Exit L5)

The Globe

Discover more

Craft beer is a growing trend in Hong Kong. Local brewers worth seeking out include Young Master, Gweilo, Black Kite, Moonzen and Lion Rock.

Ruby

A cavernous spot in Central, Ruby cleverly finds a workaround for Hong Kong's sky-high rents, by squeezing an underground club into a regular bar space. Featuring top local DJs, it's a prime choice for those seeking the city's electronic music scene, with a rotating alternative selection of everything from deep house to disco. Decked out in dark red colours and vintage film posters, it's an in-the-know club that's not made for the masses.

8 Address: 33 Pottinger Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2392 5233 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)

Second Draft

Hong Kong's craft beer scene is the hottest nightlife trend in town, and there's no better place to get a taste for it than at Second Draft. Nearly all of the city's brewers are represented here, and kegs are changed every few hours, guaranteeing you a fresh new tipples each time you visit. Sample beers infused with chrysanthemum and Sichuan peppercorn, before snacking on contemporary takes on local diner dishes, including French toast with foie gras and Mapo tofu burrata.

9 Address: 98 Tung Lo Wan Road, Tai Hang, Hong Kong Island, 2656 0232 (MTR Tin Hau Station, Exit B)

Sense 99

Down the street from Central, Sense 99 is a serene slice of hipster cool in an old colonial building. Everything about this two-floor bar has a bit of artistic charm: furniture is a second-hand mishmash, surreal artwork is dotted all around the walls, and the toilet is full of graffiti. Rub shoulders over bargain drinks on its airy terraces, and then head up to its jam spot, where anyone with a bit of musical skill can join the band for the night.

10 Address: 2/F, 65-65A Peel Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 9466 4695 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2)

Tai Lung Fung

Second Draft

Tai Lung Fung

Tai Lung Fung is a nostalgic dream of Hong Kong, a place where neon signs and vintage posters place you into a scene straight out of a Wong Kar-wai movie. It's the kind of cocktail bar you'd only find in our city, made all the better by local twists on classic drinks, including lemongrass martinis and plum wine cocktails. Its location is perfect, just round the corner from The Blue House, a 1920s Wan Chai tenement building.

11 Address: 5 Hing Wan Street, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2572 0055 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A3)

Club Legend

If Hong Kong's Western-tinged nightclubs just aren't cutting it for you, head out to Club Legend, an immense spot popular among local millennials. This Mong Kok dive is absolutely packed on weekends with massive dance floors, multiple DJ booths, chilled-out lounge areas and numerous darts machines. And for those who can put it away, their assortment of all-you-can-drink deals is unrivalled in Hong Kong.

12 Address: 19/F, 601 Nathan Road, Mong Kok, Kowloon, 2264 8010 (MTR Mong Kok Station, Exit E1)

Club Legend

Forever Lounge

Among the ever-changing tastes and popular sports bars of Tin Hau, this Chinese pub has been keeping it local for as long as we can remember. You can tell from hundreds of yards away, its blindingly bright '80s neon sign and jukebox blaring hair-metal makes it a far cry from others in the area. There's no better place to get a true Hong Kong experience, the 'lounge' serving up ice-cold beer buckets, alongside its darts boards and dice games.

13 Address: 176-178 Causeway Road, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2887 6543 (MTR Tin Hau Station, Exit B)

Forever Lounge

Neway Karaoke

Neway Karaoke

Throw a rock in Causeway Bay, Mong Kok or any populated area of the city, and you're bound to hit a karaoke bar. It's a Hong Kong pastime and a late-night weekend favourite, where large groups blare out tunes while downing whisky and green tea. If you're up for the singing challenge, Neway is one of the city's most famous chains, with private VIP rooms, food and drinks packages, and plenty of international songs to choose from.

14 Address: Various locations, including 2-3/F, 19-31 Yee Wo Street, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island, 2137 9777 (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit E)
Website: newaykb.com

Virus

For almost 20 years, Virus has been embracing the city's lesbian community. Its location has changed over the decades, but the cosy atmosphere has stayed the same: a warm, vintage aesthetic that feels like a home away from home. Settle into a couch with a drink, or have a go on its karaoke machine, before digging into one of their famed late-night snacks.

15 Address: 21/F, Chung Wai Commercial Building, 447-449 Lockhart Road, Causeway Bay, Hong Kong Island (MTR Causeway Bay Station, Exit C)

Sound of the city

Macpherson Stadium

Macpherson Stadium (macstadium.hkpa.hk) is a multi-purpose sports venue in Mong Kok, and in recent years has also proved itself as the best mid-scale venue in Hong Kong, in my humble opinion. We've put on artists including Morrissey, Bon Iver, Tame Impala and many others in there, and being able to fully control the sound and production, plus fully license a bar inside, all adds up to creating great gig-going experiences. Simple pleasures.

The Wanch

The Wanch (thewanch.hk) has been a local music institution for 30 years now. Featuring live programming every night of the week with no cover charge, including their ever popular open-mic night, The Wanch is as much a gathering spot for like-minded souls to meet over drinks and shared love of music, and the action often spills out on to the street.

KITEC

KITEC has a few venue spaces across various sizes, which we use depending on the profile and pull of the artist in question. So from working with the likes of Grimes, Rodrigo y Gabriela & Hyukoh in the 600 cap MusicZone, to Elbow and Two Door Cinema Club in their 1500 cap Rotundas, through to their largest room, Star Hall, where the likes of Ellie Goulding, Justice, Bastille and M83 all made for gloriously memorable shows.

Justin Sweeting may be the main music producer behind Clockenflap, Hong Kong's biggest music festival, but the born-and-bred Hong Konger started out by building a musical following across smaller venues. Here, he gives us a rundown of some of his favourite spots.

Aqua

Views are front and centre at Aqua, literally, with its entire harbour-facing side made up of floor-to-ceiling windows to showcase Hong Kong Island's stunning skyline. The bar itself is also pretty impressive, an upscale affair with comfy leather booths for romantic couples and shared tables ideal for showing off our city. Drinks are ever changing, with Asian twists on classic cocktails, while its snack selection is a mix of Japanese and Italian.

16 Address: 29-30/F, 1 Peking Road, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 3427 2288 (MTR Tsim Sha Tsui Station, Exit L5)
Website: aqua.com.hk

CÉ LA VI

CÉ LA VI is all about the views, a spacious deckhouse-like rooftop bar in Central where you're right in the middle of the skyscraper mix. On your left, Bank of China Tower; on your right, Central Plaza; and far off in the distance, the ICC, Hong Kong's tallest building. It's a grand 360-degree showcase of the sweeping skyline, paired with cool cocktails, tasty fusion snacks and an impressive wine list.

17 Address: 25/F, California Tower, 30 D'Aguilar Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 3700 2300 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: hk.celavi.com

Pier 3 Bar

Desperately seeking a stunning view of the skyline, but can't afford the standard high prices? Head over to Pier 3 Bar, just above its namesake pier in Central. It's a local alfresco bar that's staked claim to one of the most coveted vistas in town, a sweeping panorama of Victoria Harbour and the Kowloon skyline. Beers are cheap as chips, snacks are greasy and decent, and the sound of the many ferries coming and going is surprisingly soothing.

18 Address: Central Pier 3, Podium Level, Central, Hong Kong Island (MTR Hong Kong Station, Exit F)

Ozone

The highest bar in the world at 118 floors, Ozone is a see-and-be-seen kind of place, and possibly the only spot where you can induce vertigo over a drink. Head out to its terrace, where winds howl and the fog sweeps in overhead. The views are striking, its floor-to-ceiling windows meaning you can get up close to the city below. Be warned though, drinks are far from cheap, with a cocktail starting at HK$200.

19 Address: 118/F, The Ritz-Carlton Hong Kong, International Commerce Centre, 1 Austin Road West, Tsim Sha Tsui, Kowloon, 2263 2270 (MTR Kowloon Station, Exit C1)
Website: ritzcarlton.com

CÉ LA VI

001

The innovator for Hong Kong's 'hidden bar' trend, 001 is possibly the worst kept secret in the city, with everyone and their mother knowing about its charms. Take a late-night stroll near the Graham Street Market, find its unassuming black door and ring the bell, before gaining entrance into its vintage speakeasy bar. Other speakeasy bars around town include Foxglove, Ophelia and Ping Pong 129 – but we're keeping mum about their hidden entrances.

- 20 Address: a) 001, 97 Wellington Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2810 6969 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit E2); b) Foxglove, 2/F, 6 Duddell Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2116 8949 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2); c) Ophelia, 1/F The Avenue, 200 Queen's Road East, Wan Chai, Hong Kong Island, 2520 1117 (MTR Wan Chai Station, Exit A3); d) Ping Pong 129, 129 Second Street, Sai Ying Pun, Hong Kong Island, 9835 5061 (MTR Sai Ying Pun Station, Exit B2)

Discover more

Every outlying island has at least one beach bar. Cheung Chau's is on Kwun Yum Beach, while Lamma Island has a few located along Yung Shue Wan.

Hing Kee Beach Bar

Snake your way through Cheung Chau's main thoroughfare, head to the last beach on the path and stop in for a couple of cold ones at Hing Kee, arguably Hong Kong's oldest beach bar. Despite its 70-plus year history, the shack-like space is still a bit of a hidden gem, but the local craft beers, incredible steak sandwiches and enviable location overlooking Kwun Yum Beach makes it worth seeking out. Here, among retro-rock tunes and chilled vibes, the moonlit waves lap against the shore while laid-back people party through the night.

- 21 Address: Kwun Yum Beach, Cheung Chau (Central Pier 5)

Hing Kee Beach Bar

Cassio

Cassio

Cassio starts off its evenings as your standard Spanish restaurant, the kind you'd find anywhere in the world. But once the late hours creep in and the DJ hits the decks, it's transformed into that rare type of club, the kind that scratches a necessary retro-pop tunes itch. Stevie Wonder, David Bowie, Prince, Michael Jackson – they're all given their due, and with its outdoor terrace-turned-dancefloor, it's a club where you can truly let your hair down while soaking in the city.

- 22 Address: 2/F, LKF Tower, 33 Wyndham Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 3792 0129 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)
Website: cassio.com.hk

FLM

Spread out over two floors and packed most nights of the week, FLM is one of Hong Kong's biggest gay clubs, a place where the LGBT community comes to unwind and dance the night away. Downstairs, the epic dancefloor sees the crowds going till all hours. Upstairs, it's a little more relaxed, the kind of place where you can stop in for a drink and a bit of a chat. Either way, you're right in the middle of the mix.

- 23 Address: 62 Jervois Street, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong Island, 2799 2883 (MTR Sheung Wan Station, Exit A2)

FLM

T:ME

An old standby for Hong Kong's LGBT community, T:ME is hidden on a back alley behind Central's bustling Hollywood Road. It's a relaxed affair compared to other gay-friendly bars, with its industrial-chic look matched by chilled-out tunes and a narrow bar-top practically made for rubbing shoulders. Nightly promotions bring in the crowds, including free vodka on Tuesdays and a late-night happy hour on Fridays.

24

Address: Rear Block, 65 Hollywood Road, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2332 6565 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)

Website: time-bar.com

Volar

Smack dab in the middle of Lan Kwai Fong, Volar is one of Hong Kong's most popular clubs, a cavernous place where the bouncers are firm and the crowd is consistently beautiful. Get past the doormen, and you're treated to a place where dark aesthetics contrast against the many blue lights. Expect more mainstream tunes compared to other clubs in the city, including a heavy emphasis on house and techno, with the occasional hip-hop night.

25

Address: 44 D'Aguilar Street, Central, Hong Kong Island, 2810 1510 (MTR Central Station, Exit D2)

Website: volar.com.hk

How to plan your visit...

A 12-hour layover

9am Fly in, drop your bags at luggage storage and hop on the Airport Express to Central - you'll be there in less than 30 minutes.

9:30am Dim sum

breakfast. Luk Yu Tea House for old-world charm or Lin Heung Tea Room for a working-class experience (p54).

11am Time to explore the city.

Walk to Central's Peak Tram terminus and take in stunning views at The Peak (p28).

2pm Lunch at Jimmy's Kitchen (p61) or Sing Kee dai pai dong (p56).

3:30pm Ride the

Star Ferry (p31) for skyline views.

Disembark at

Kowloon and stroll

down the Tsim Sha Tsui

Promenade (p29).

5pm Visit the Museum of History (p49) to explore Hong Kong's past.

6:30pm Head to Yau Ma Tei, where Temple Street (p78) and Ladies' Market (p77) sell every kind of souvenir.

8:30pm A quick dinner: street snacks at Dundas Street (p52) or a simple dish at Mido Café (p54).

9pm Connect from the MTR to the Airport Express and arrive back at the airport for your flight home.

The ultimate long weekend

Friday: city day

9am Ride the Airport Express into Central.

11am Walk to Central's Peak Tram terminus and take in stunning views at The Peak (p28).

2pm Back to Central. Lunch at Jimmy's Kitchen (p61), or Sing Kee dai pai dong (p56).

3:30pm Ride the Star Ferry (p31) for skyline views. Disembark at Kowloon, stroll the Tsim Sha Tsui Promenade (p29).

7pm Taxi to the ICC Building (p41). Have a drink at Ozone bar (p153).

8:30pm Dinner time. Tuck into classic Peking duck at Spring Deer (p64) or fusion flavours at China Tang (p58).

10:30pm Party on Knutsford Terrace or Tung Choi Street (p142).

Saturday: Lantau day

9am Hop on the MTR to Tung Chung and ride the cable car to Ngong Ping (p40).

11am Shop at Ngong Ping village, before walking to The Big Buddha (p27).

1pm A healthy lunch at Po Lin Monastery (p27).

3pm Taxi to Mui Wo Pier, hire a bicycle (p98) and explore surrounding villages.

6pm Cycle to Pui O. Have dinner and watch the sunset.

8pm Ferry back to Central. Take in bustling Lan Kwai Fong & SoHo on a Saturday night (p142).

Sunday: outdoor day

9am Sunday dim sum. Luk Yu Tea House for old-world charm or Lin Heung Tea Room for a working-class experience (p54).

10am Pack a lunch and head to Sha Tin. Find Stage 5 of the MacLehose Trail; hike through unique sights (p101).

3pm Taxi to Sha Tin Racecourse for last few Sunday races (p116).

6pm Taxi to Sai Kung. Enjoy a waterfront dinner at Sing Kee (p56).

9pm Grab a nightcap at alfresco bars CÉ LA VI (p152) or Pier 3 Bar (p152).

Monday: shopping day

10am Start on Cat Street (p76) for age-old antiques. Sift through PoHo's independent stores (p83).

1pm Lunch in Wan Chai at Kam's Roast Goose (p52) or Under Bridge Spicy Crab (p57).

2:30pm Shop for gadgets at Wan Chai Computer Centre (p93).

5pm Head to Yau Ma Tei, where Temple Street (p78) and Ladies' Market (p77) offer many souvenirs.

8pm A quick dinner: street snacks at Dundas Street (p52) or a simple dish at Mido Café (p54).

9pm Connect from the MTR to the Airport Express and arrive back at the airport for your flight home.

1

2

4

5

6

7

8

9

11

Highlights

1. Possession Street
2. Chu Wing Kee
3. Tai Ping Shan Street
4. Upper Lascar Row
5. Man Mo Temple
6. Pak Tsz Lane Park
7. Graham Street / Hollywood Road
8. Tai Cheong Bakery
9. Lan Fong Yuen
10. Tai Kwun
11. Piqniq

Discover more

Refer to p34 for details about Old Town Central

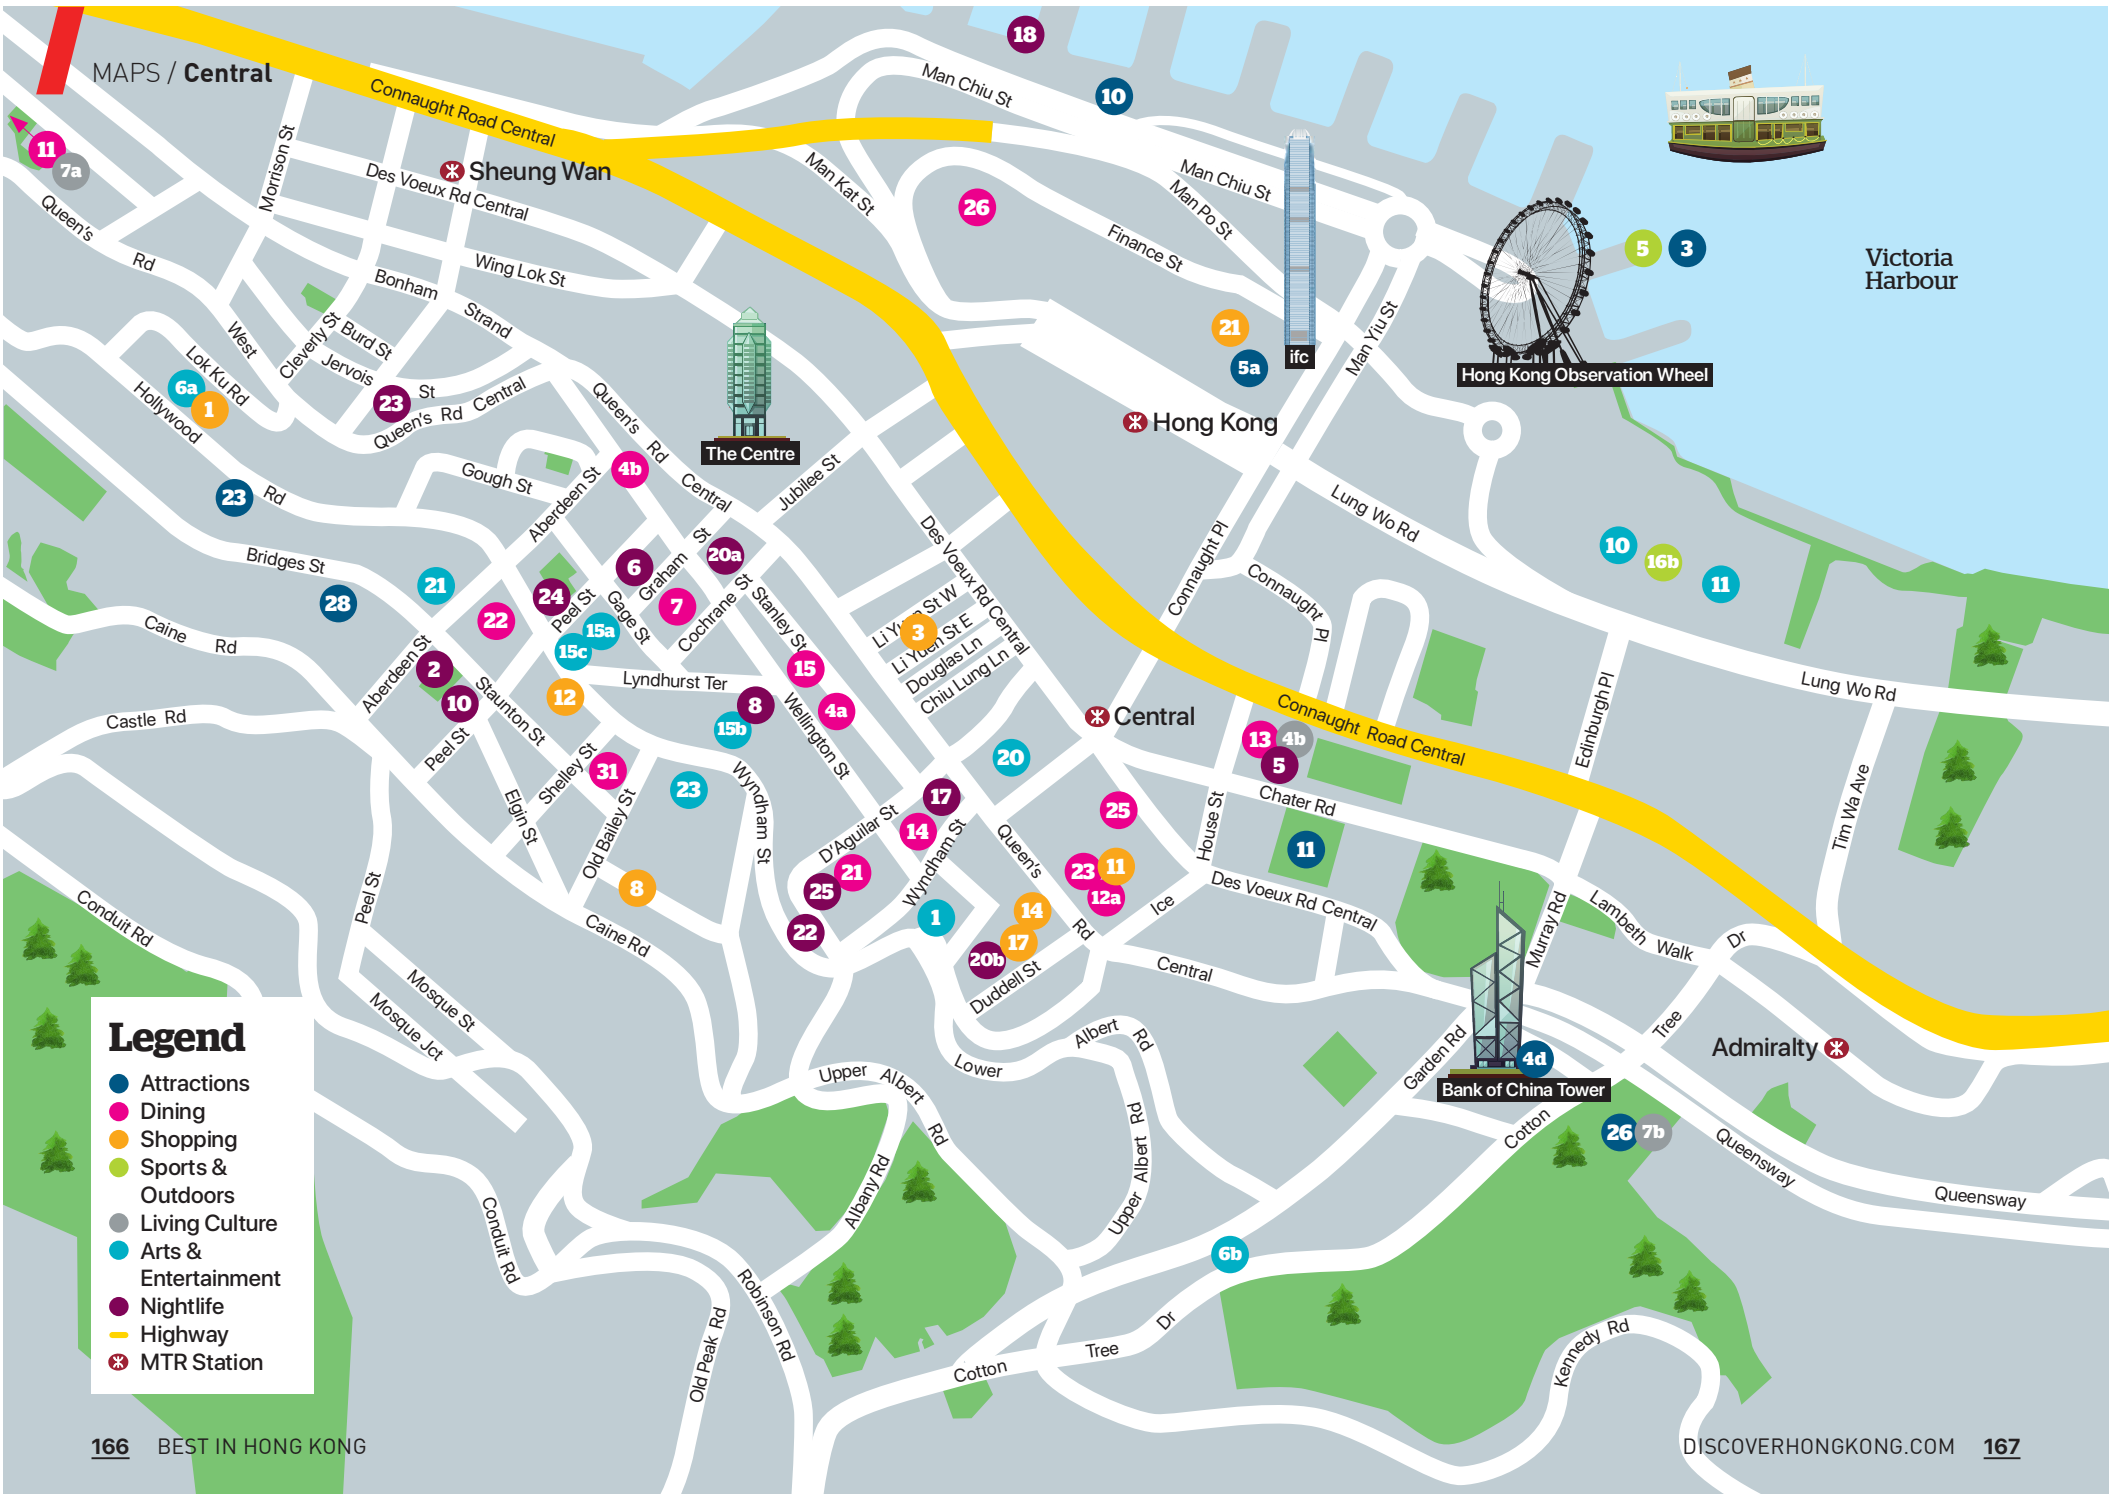

Highlights Trip
 MTR Station

- ### Highlights
1. Kung Wo Beancurd Factory
  2. Wong Kee Flea Market
  3. Doughnut
  4. Kwan Kee Store
  5. Apliu Street
  6. Sam Tai Tsz & Pak Tai Temple
  7. Yu Chau Street (Bead Street)
  8. Ki Lung Street (Button Street)
  9. Brothers Leathercraft
  10. Pei Ho Street
  11. Hop Yik Tai

Discover more
 Refer to p36 for details about Sham Shui Po

Highlights Trip
 MTR Station

Legend

- Attractions
- Dining
- Shopping
- Sports & Outdoors
- Living Culture
- Arts & Entertainment
- Nightlife
- Highway
- ✱ MTR Station

5b 20 19 500m

Legend

- Attractions
- Dining
- Shopping
- Sports & Outdoors
- Living Culture
- Arts & Entertainment
- Nightlife
- Highway
- ★ MTR Station

Victoria Harbour

Legend

- Attractions
- Dining
- Shopping
- Sports & Outdoors
- Living Culture
- Arts & Entertainment
- Nightlife
- Highway
- ⊗ MTR Station

NewBase Content

Guide Editor, English / Pavan Shamdasani
 Guide Editor, Chinese / Carmen Yung

Executive Content Director / Rod Mackenzie
 Creative Director / Fredrik Dittlau

Sales Director / Rita Tseng
 Senior Sales Manager / Emily Chan

Commercial enquiries / rita.tseng@newbasecontent.com
 36 Carpenter Street, Carpenter Haus, #02-01, Singapore 059915

newbasecontent.com

Supported by:

Photography

Inside pages: Ann-Kathrin Koch (p147); The Armoury (p86); Art Basel (p130); Billy Clarke (p38; p52-53; p56; p58; p71; p84-85; p118-119; p149); CÉ LA VI (p152); Clockenflap (p131); Dancers (from top): Garry Corpuz, Wang Qingxin, Creative: Design Army, Photography: Dean Alexander (p124-125); Francis So (p102-103); Hing Kee Beach Bar (p154); HKRU (p17, 110); Hong Kong Arts Festival (p131); The Hong Kong Ballet (p127); Hong Kong Disneyland (p38); K11 (p136); Jacques Dumont (p32); Kelvin Yuen (p18); Kevin Li (p71); The Landmark Mandarin Oriental (p68); L'Atelier de Joël Robuchon (p69); Lok Man Rare Books (p82); Mandarin Oriental (p144); Para Site (p137); The Peninsula Hong Kong (p69); Reframing Hong Kong, A local project, @Richard Kimber (p2), Reframing Hong Kong, A local project, Tsai Hsin-Min (p50-51); The Ritz-Carlton Hong Kong (p153); Sankalp Sharma (p13); Shanghai Tang (p93); Topaz Leung (p11, p33); Getty Images (p47; p106)

The Best in Hong Kong: A Traveller's Guide was planned, produced and published by NewBase Content Pte Ltd with the support of the Hong Kong Tourism Board. The views and opinions expressed or implied in Best in Hong Kong: A Traveller's Guide do not necessarily reflect those of the Hong Kong Tourism Board. The Hong Kong Tourism Board shall not be responsible for any views, opinions or information described in the book including those of shops, restaurants, goods and services, and it does not represent or make any guarantee concerning any shops, restaurants, goods and services and so on, including their commercial applicability as well as accuracy, adequacy and reliability of any information, views or opinions provided whatsoever, etc. No responsibility is accepted for the claims made in advertisements, articles, photographs or illustrations contained in this publication. Customers can refer to relevant parties if they have any enquiries. The guide is carefully compiled. However, the Hong Kong Tourism Board and NewBase Content Pte Ltd will not be liable for any outdated information, errors or omissions. All rights reserved. Copyright © 2020. No part of this publication may be reproduced without the written permission of the Hong Kong Tourism Board and NewBase Content Pte Ltd.

CONNECTED Technology Driven in Convenient Location

COOL
Green Concept

SMART
Select-Service Hotel

iclub Mong Kok Hotel • Now Open
iclub Sheung Wan II Hotel • Opening in 2020

- iclub Fortress Hill Hotel : 18 Merlin Street, North Point, Hong Kong
- iclub Ma Tau Wai Hotel : 8 Ha Heung Road, Ma Tau Wai, Hong Kong
- iclub Mong Kok Hotel : 2 Anchor Street, Mong Kok, Hong Kong
- iclub Sheung Wan Hotel : 138 Bonham Strand, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong
- iclub Sheung Wan II Hotel : 5 Bonham Strand West, Sheung Wan, Hong Kong
- iclub Wan Chai Hotel : 211 Johnston Road, Wan Chai, Hong Kong

www.iclub-hotels.com

Reservations : (852) 3963 6388
 Fax : (852) 3963 6399
 Email : info@iclub-hotels.com

#DiscoverHongKong

SHARE YOUR MOMENT

BEST OF ALL IT'S IN HONG KONG
香港

HONG KONG
TOURISM BOARD

